

New Charges Made Of Secret Plotting By Japs in Siberia

Copy of Alleged Treaty Between Japan and Anti-Bolsheviks Produced in Washington.

JAPAN IS ACCUSED OF BLOCKING PEACE

Tokio Government Said to Arm and Support Bandits—'Absolutely False,' Says Kato.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, January 3.—The representatives of the Chita government of Siberia have made fresh charges that the Japanese are secretly plotting to dominate eastern Siberia, in the face of unequivocal Japanese denials.

The new accusations are supported by what purports to be a copy of a treaty negotiated between the Japanese and the anti-bolshevik generals, led by Semenov. The alleged treaty sets forth that the Japanese are to provide the Semenov forces with money and arms and ammunition, in return for which the Japanese would be granted special privileges in Siberia.

The document proves, the Siberians declare, that the Japanese are endeavoring to establish a government in the Far Eastern republic which they would virtually control. It shows as well, they charge, that the Japanese deliberately are preventing the re-establishment of peace in Siberia.

Kato flatly denies.

Admiral Baron Kato, of the Japanese delegation, flatly denied the existence of such a treaty, at the same time reiterating denials that France and Japan had an understanding with regard to mutual support in Russia.

"The documents are absolutely false," said Kato, adding that he had been a member of the cabinet for the past seven years, and would have known if treaties had been made.

Kato went on to explain the Japanese policy in Siberia, which is of interest because of the certainty that Japan's failure to withdraw her troops from Siberia will be aired before the arms conference. The withdrawal was provided in the agreement made among the United States, Japan, Great Britain and France in 1918, when allied troops had been sent into Siberia.

On Troop Withdrawal.

Kato said the Japanese troops would be withdrawn when guarantees are received that Russian forces will no longer menace Korea or Manchuria. Guarantees with regard to the protection of Japanese nationals and properties might also be asked, he said, if they were deemed necessary.

Kato stressed the statement that the Japanese had no desire to interfere with the domestic policies of Siberia in any way.

The Siberians assert that the original of the Semenov-Japanese treaty is in the archives of the ministry of foreign affairs. It is dated June 8, 1921, and related principally to the military operations each signatory was to undertake.

The Japanese, according to the document, were to pay 500,000 yen, deliver military supplies and aid in transport.

One paragraph says: "When a stable governmental authority is established in the Far East, Japanese subjects shall receive preferential rights for obtaining hunting, fishing and forestry concessions in the Maritime, Saghalien and Kamachacka provinces, and for the development of the mining resources and gold mines in the Maritime and Amur provinces."

The Siberians declare the treaty proves these things:

"1. The Japanese are in league with the bandits and pay and arm them."

"2. The Japanese themselves deliberately are blocking peace in Siberia."

"Gift of Gab" Costs Griffin Banks $1,050

Three Clever Crooks Out-talk Police and Cash Three Bad Checks.

Griffin, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—Three clever crooks "out-talked" the Griffin police force here today.

When the Griffin agent for an Atlanta morning paper was making his morning delivery, he found three men in the office of E. S. McDowell, a local real estate man. They said they were waiting for Mr. McDowell. The paper man was suspicious and notified the police.

The officers questioned the men, who said they were Atlanta insurance men and were waiting to see Mr. McDowell; that they had arrived on an early morning train and did not wish to go to a hotel. The police did not detain the strangers.

Checks That Are Not.

At eleven o'clock, when the Griffin clearing house met to clear the local checks, it was discovered that three checks had been drawn on the Merchants and Planters bank by E. S. McDowell, but it was also discovered that the signature was not that of the real estate dealer. He was questioned and it was determined that he had not drawn the three checks.

This story was brought to light: A well-dressed man presented a check at the City National bank for $850 drawn by E. S. McDowell. The stranger spoke to the teller and said: "You know me. My name is Patrick, and I live near Griffin. I want to deposit five hundred of this and want the balance in cash."

And Then Disappeared.

The teller was agreeable. The same story was told a teller at the Second National bank, and the story was repeated still a third time at the Griffin Banking company.

Whereas, three Griffin banks are out exactly $1,050.

No trace has been found of the forgers.

WILEY CANDY CO. GUTTED BY FLAMES IN MORNING HOURS

Large Three-Story Brick Building and $60,000 in Equipment Is a Total Loss.

FLAMES THREATEN MATTRESS FACTORY

Heroic Work of Firemen and Presence of Fire Wall Believed to Have Saved Latter.

Fire of unknown origin, which caused the total loss of a large three-story brick building and the entire equipment of the Wiley Candy company, estimated at about $60,000, broke out shortly after midnight this morning at the Wiley company's plant at the corner of West Hunter and Haines streets.

The flames ate their way from the front of the candy concern and soon enveloped and completely gutted the structure. For some time the Metzger Mattress company, occupying a three-story building adjoining the Wiley company, was seriously threatened, but heroic work on the part of the firemen and the presence of an excellent fire wall probably saved the latter concern.

As this edition of The Constitution went to press, the fire under control, but it is believed that the loss will be restricted to the candy company and that the only damage to the mattress company will be occasioned by smoke and water.

Entire Section Threatened.

The mattress company's building contained a large amount of highly inflammable material, and firemen said that if it caught the entire section beyond the "terminal station" would be threatened.

The building occupied by the Wiley company, it is said, is owned by Carl Witt, but the fire under control, and no statement was available as to its value.

The building of the mattress company is a stone structure. When the first alarm was sounded, four fire companies rushed to the Wiley candy factory, where the flames had gained full headway in the three-story brick building. Soon a dozen or more hoses were spouting a huge volume of water on the building in an effort to check the rush of the flames and to prevent the mattress factory building just to the side from catching on fire.

At 2 o'clock the Wiley factory was practically consumed, only the outer shell of the building remaining. At this point the fire department turned most of its attention to the mattress building.

Emergency Call.

Some time earlier an emergency call for all available equipment and men had been issued by Fire Chief Cody, and the central companies were on hand in force engaged in fighting the fire stubbornly.

Six hundred bales of cotton, used for stuffing mattresses, were stored in the factory building. In addition to extensive equipment, this building was constructed of stone.

The Wiley company is one of the oldest in the candy business in the south and is widely known in business circles. The mattress company is also an important manufacturing concern of the city.

Toll of Alcohol Deaths Is Heavy After New Year's

London Newspaper Points to Tragic List Against Prohibition.

BY SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE, United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, January 3.—New York is beginning to count the tragic cost of its holiday "celebration."

Eighteen deaths, eight of them caused by drinking too much alcohol, and the others due to acute alcoholism induced by prohibition booze, are already recorded, and the death toll is not yet complete.

Every hospital in the city lists in the number of its patients from one to a dozen who are suffering from the same cause. In two days, at Bellevue hospital, 40 patients were admitted, some of them blind, some paralyzed, some dying. Of these 40, five were women.

That isn't all. Murders, assaults and suicides, directly traced to bad liquor, continue to fill the news columns. The latest is a tragedy of a customs official, sent to "guard" the liquor stock of an Italian ship. He came ashore drunk, with a companion, also drunk. They went to a saloon in the Bronx and demanded more drink. The bartender refused and the trusted customs official shot him through the head. He woke up in a cell Tuesday afternoon and wondered why he was there.

Woman Found Dead.

A woman was found dead in a subway station. Beside her was an empty bottle labeled "Gin." A shoemaker was found, blind and partially paralyzed, on the steps of his home. He died, and analysis showed the cause—wood alcohol.

An unidentified woman was found in a hallway clutching an empty bottle. She and an unidentified man picked up on the street will die.

"I killed my wife on Christmas day," said a Perth Amboy carpenter, walking into the police station. There had been a quarrel over drinking, then murder.

The carpenter continued drinking until he "thought his wife was calling him," and then gave himself up.

Prohibition enforcement agents are reported as "pleased" with the results of the holiday "prohibition," and the assistant chief enforcement officer has been recently complimented by State Director Ralph A. Day on his work.

"This Is Result."

Meanwhile, the police, if they are able to trace the source of the liquor which may be deemed more or less "good," are making strenuous endeavor to find the original purveyor of the gallons of wood alcohol that went into Christmas and New Year's bottles. Probably they will never find the source, for those who drank it are dead and unable to tell where they bought it.

"A great many amateur chemists," said an official at prohibition headquarters, "think they know how to restore denatured alcohol to its original non-poisonous quality. They don't know how, and this is the result."

COLLINS RESENTS "INSULT" IN DAIL TO PRINCESS MARY

Member of Sinn Fein Parliament Hotly Resents Use of Princess' Name in Debate.

TREATY RATIFICATION IS CONSIDERED SURE

But Only Small Majority Is Expected as Debate Grows Hot in Dail Eireann.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Dublin, January 3.—The dail eireann reassembled today to take what it is hoped will be final action on the Irish treaty. At the close of the session the impression prevailed that ratification was certain, but the majority would be small.

Since the proceedings began the rule has been for speakers for and against the treaty to be heard alternately, and up to the present it has not been found necessary to break this rule, so evenly is the parliament divided, and it is probable that the rule will be followed to the end. The pace is quickening somewhat, however, while four speakers occupied the entire morning, ten were heard in the afternoon, and there is some hope of the debate terminating Thursday or Friday.

Frequent attempts are being made to hasten the decision, either by limiting the length of the speeches or by a closure motion, but thus far the leaders on both sides have not been able to reach any agreement on the matter.

LEGISLATIVE JAM FACING CONGRESS AS WORK RESUMES

Republican Leaders Described as Terror-Stricken by Complex Problems Looming Ahead.

ARE PLANNING LAWS TO PREVENT STRIKES

Court Representing Public Interest Is Proposed to Pass on All Labor Disputes.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON, Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, January 3.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—When both houses of congress get down tomorrow to the long winter and spring stretch, before the end of which the respective congressional campaigns will be actively on, and in many instances the primaries held, the lawmakers will find a busy program before them, involving political uncertainties that make the republicans particularly shaky and terror-stricken at the opening.

Tariff, further tax revision, the Newberry case, treaties growing out of the disarmament conference, foreign debt refunding, railroad relief, ship subsidy—these are some of the problems just ahead.

Various complications have intervened with what republican leaders would like to do. In the senate, for instance, the foreign debt refunding bill, which President Harding marked "urgent" in his message to the December opening of the session, seems hopelessly bogged in the finance committee. The committee will meet sometime this week to consider that measure and its future course on the tariff bill.

Tariff Progress Slow.

Tariff revision has been in progress for many months, but the senate finance committee today seemed no nearer completion of the measure than it was last November. Hearings, filling many volumes with testimony, have been had, and are continuing, through many repetitions of similar views.

Meanwhile, there is talk in the house of beginning once a "scientific" tax revision, to supplement the "temporary" tax bill passed recently. Many congressmen, who want to continue in office, report that business, or the farmers, or somebody in the section of the country is not satisfied with the present tax law and wants more revision.

Senate leaders spent the day canvassing the situation presented by Penrose's death and preparing to make committee shifts necessitated by the event.

Newberry Case.

The senate is under agreement to resume discussion of the Newberry case this week. A vote is expected this month.

Final Approval Is Reserved, However, Pending Decision on Precise Wording of Clause.

BRITISH ACCEPTANCE IS ALREADY GIVEN

U-Boat Commanders Violating Rule Would Be Subject to Trial on Piracy Charge.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, January 3.—The American proposal to prohibit use of submarines against merchant vessels, now the predominant issue of the arms negotiations, has been accepted in principle by France, but her delegates have reserved final approval pending a discussion of the precise language of the declaration.

British acceptance previously has been given, and although neither the Italians nor the Japanese had received final instructions tonight, there were indications that neither Rome or Tokyo would interpose serious objection if the proposal received France's full approval.

The exact nature of the French reservation was not revealed, but the impression was gathered in some quarters that it might concern such a definition of the terms of the declaration as would make it clear just what conduct would be expected from merchantmen in view of their immunity from submarine attack.

Definition of Term.

Should that point be raised an interesting and many-sided discussion might arise, for, in several quarters, there has been apparent a tendency toward the opinion that the term "merchant ships" would be strictly defined with express stipulations as to whether merchantmen are to be permitted to arm and whether it is to be permissible to disguise warships as vessels of commerce.

The French delegation, however, in making known their acceptance in principle, has emphasized that they not only agree to the original proposal of Elie Rott that the new prohibition on submarine warfare become effective when all nations have agreed to it, but also to its amendment of Arthur J. Balfour, which would make the prohibition immediately effective as between the five great powers.

At the same time the French have accepted the additional Rott declaration under which any submarine commander violating the rules of international law would be liable to trial for an act of piracy. In regard to this also acceptances still are awaited from the other foreign governments. It is possible the delegates' instruction will be sufficiently complete, however, to permit meeting of the naval committee of the whole tomorrow.

PUBLIC UTILITIES IN BIG TRANSFER

Traction Lines and Power Plants in Many Southern Cities Involved in Deal.

New York, January 3.—A plan of new financing by the newly organized National Power and Light company, intended to rehabilitate trolley and electric light concerns in six southern cities controlled by the American Cities company, and end receiverships for three of them, was announced today.

Subscription by the new organization of the controlling company's five, and six per cent collateral trust bonds, on which there had been default two years ago, is a feature of the plan.

Three of the companies affected and which are now in receivership are the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power company, Memphis Street Railway company and New Orleans Railway and Light company. It was agreed by the committee of the American Cities company, which decided on the plan that the affairs of the New Orleans company should be left in control of the Chase National Bank of New York.

The other companies involved in the refinancing are the Houston Lighting and Power company, Knoxville Railway and Light company and Little Rock Railway and Electric company.

DEAL WAS EXPECTED.

Birmingham, Ala., January 3.—No definite plans have been made for the reorganization of the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power company, Lee C. Bradley, receiver, stated tonight regarding the organization of the National Power and Light company to take over the properties of the American Cities company.

Consummation of the deal has been expected for some time, according to Mr. Bradley, following an examination of the properties by agents of the Electric Bond and Share company. The approximate valuation of the Birmingham utilities controlled by the American Cities company is placed at $22,500,000.

RECEIVERSHIP IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 3.—No authoritative statement was forthcoming tonight from officers of the New Orleans Railway and Light company, controlled by the American Cities company, regarding a reorganization of the local company, or what effect the taking over of the American Cities company today by a new company would have on the New Orleans properties.

For the past year or more the local company has been in the hands of a federal receiver and plans have been made to reach an agreement between the bondholders of the company and city officials for an acceptable reorganization of the company. City and state officials recently instituted court proceedings to force the railway company to reduce street car fares, which is now 8 cents.

The approximate value of the street railway, light and gas properties owned by the New Orleans company is estimated at $44,700,000.

'BAREFOOT ROBBER' BELIEVED CAUGHT

A. P. Chandler, Arrested in Marietta, Suspected of Having Had Hand in Series of Odd Burglaries.

In the capture Tuesday afternoon by City Detective E. M. Cason, of P. Chandler, 37 years old, of Marietta, Ga., a man who has been mainstayed for several months was ended, and the man known to criminal circles as "the barefoot burglar," was in the toils of the law, officers said.

Captured in 1916 and charged with participation in more than 100 individual cases of burglary, this "barefoot burglar" was sentenced to twenty years in the state penitentiary.

Because of good behavior, he was paroled, reports stated, in June, 1921, and given liberty. It was not long, however, before suspicion was again directed at him because of the nature of a number of burglaries which convinced police that "the barefoot burglar" was again at work.

He is suspected, detectives stated, of a number of recent burglaries in the North Side section and efforts are being made following his arrest Tuesday to definitely prove his connection with several which so far have remained mysteries.

The operations of the "barefoot burglar" are said to be unique. He is said to remove his shoes and stockings prior to entering a home, never to carry a revolver or other weapon with which to defend himself, and to have a passion for money. It is said that he has been known to overlook articles valued at hundreds, and even thousands of dollars, in his search for money.

Chandler was convicted in 1916 of burglarizing the home of S. S. Dean, 1630 Ponce de Leon avenue. When last week the home was again reported robbed, the manner in which the burglary was performed contained all the earmarks of "the barefoot burglar" and Detective Cason was directed to hunt for the man until he got him.

Cason, working day and night, and trailing his man, finally nabbed him Tuesday. Chandler is being held at police headquarters on a blanket of suspicion without bond.

on several other important issues of the Washington negotiations were stirring behind the scenes.

The Chinese, moving to break their deadlock with the Japanese over Shantung, took steps toward more direct employment of the proffered "good offices" of Secretary Hughes and Arthur J. Balfour, the respective heads of the American and British delegations, was approached personally by the Chinese representatives, and in some quarters definite results are expected within a few days.

Following the example of the Americans, the British group indicated that it will have no objection to the Japanese proposal to clarify further the scope of the new four-power Pacific treaty, so that it will not apply to the principal islands of the Japanese empire. A definite declaration on the subject, to be approved by the four signatory powers, is understood to be in preparation.

Subcommittees Under Progress. Meantime, work on two important collateral features of the conference, involving technical details of the naval statement and revisions of the Chinese tariff system, moved forward in subcommittees with a promise of early conclusion. The naval experts subcommittee spent day clearing away the remaining loose ends of the naval agreement, and the tariff subcommittee is understood at a session late in the day to have cleared up the details regarding the readjustment of China's tariff schedule.

Before the meeting of the tariff body, its chairman, Senator Underwood, of the American delegation, conferred at length with Albert Sarraut, head of the French group, and they are said to have discussed the particular interest of France in the new Chinese fiscal arrangement, arising out of conditions along the border of French Indo-China. The entire subject of the open door is understood to have been reviewed by the two delegates, with the result that the work of the subcommittee was facilitated materially.

While the arms delegates were giving their first attention to these subjects, they also were taking some note of developments on the fringe of the conference itself, but regarded as having more or less direct connection with it.

Harvey's Instructions. It was said at the white house that Ambassador Harvey had not been instructed to raise the submarine issue at the Cannes conference, but there were indications that if it should be brought forward by some other power he would be in a position to discuss it.

In discussing tonight the French acceptance of the submarine restrictions Mr. Sarraut declared that his government "accepts frankly not only the Root resolutions, but Mr. Balfour's proposal in respect to the second one."

Asked if it would be necessary "to discuss the resolutions," he said: "We accept fully the spirit of the resolutions, which includes also the spirit of the second one with Mr. Balfour's addition. The naval experts will give the resolutions a precise form so that there may be a clear understanding of them."

Many Problems Raised. Previously strong misgivings appeared to have arisen in the minds of various delegates as to the prudence of accepting Mr. Balfour's suggestion of the submarine problem, but the accepted now by the five powers. With-out waiting for the "universal consent" which Mr. Root said was necessary to make a fresh addition to international law, naval people were said to be thinking of the need for clear and elaborate definitions of the meaning of the resolution and the naval questions opened up by it. The resolution provides that submarines shall not be used as commerce destroyers under any circumstance. Some of the questions raised are these:

"If submarines may not attack capital ships or lighter sea surface warships or by airplanes or by mines or by any device employed other than by submarines?"

"Are merchant ships free to run down and attack submarines or can they be converted into auxiliary naval craft having all the appearance of merchant ships, although really armed, or can merchant ships be employed by submarines?"

"If capital ships may bombard open towns thereby endangering the lives of non-combatants, are submarines also free to bombard undefended ports?"

"What is to be the relation of submarines, precluded from endangering non-combatants and the use by land armies or airplanes and poisonous gas bombs?"

Italian Delay. It was said tonight, however, that members of the French delegation, while they have their views on this question, are not disposed to press them upon the attention of the conference, but to let other delegations invite the British and Americans clarify and explain.

The Italian reply on the Root resolutions is said to have been delayed because the Italian government, being entirely absorbed by important questions, such as the crisis of the Banca Italiana di Sconto and the meeting at Cannes, has not yet thoroughly examined the situation. The Italian delegation has supplied Rome with minute explanations and interpretations of the resolution and its amendment.

What immediate steps may be taken as a result of the proposed intercession of Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour in the Shantung negotiations is not apparent, but the latest development seemed to revive hope of a settlement both among the Chinese and Japanese.

As head of the Japanese delegation, Baron Kato took occasion to deny reports that direct negotiations concerning the Shantung question had been inaugurated at Peking by the Japanese minister. He added that probably the report was based upon the visit of courtesy which the Japanese minister at Peking paid to new prime minister of China, on which occasion Baron Kato said "he might have mentioned the Shantung question."

LEGISLATIVE JAM FACING CONGRESS

this spring, legislation to handle labor controversies is about ready for congress. The legislation, as yet, cannot be said to be a part of the Harding program, although eventually there is no doubt the president will give it his support.

The president is informed on what has developed, and he and members of his cabinet and senators have discussed the plan to be advanced, and he is said to be in entire sympathy with the effort to be made.

Not Arbitration. Neither mediation nor conciliation is to be sought through this program. The proponents of the plan desire to get as far away from the idea of arbitration as possible. They desire to create a court where disputes will be rendered in all strikes wherein interstate commerce is involved. But, contrary to the idea given by the president on several recent occasions, the plan is not patterned after the Kansas industrial court in any particular.

The bill provides for the creation of a court on which neither employers nor employees will be represented as such. The court will be representative of the public interest only and the judges are to be chosen without regard to their affiliation with any groups directly interested in or associated with the labor problem. The court is to make its decisions on evidence submitted. Public opinion will be called on to prevent strikes during the time cases are on trial. And the decisions will carry with them no threat of enforcement, other than the threat of public opinion. These are the features of the plan.

J. R. SMITH RESIGNS PRESIDENCY OF LIONS

J. R. Smith, first president of the Atlanta Lions' club, presented his resignation as president at the club's regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Piedmont hotel. The board of directors will nominate a new president and will call for an election at next Tuesday's meeting.

Mr. Smith, who is a member of the realty firm of Smith & Rankin, was elected president of the southern district of Lions' club at the recent convention at Rome, Ga., and gave his new duties as the cause of his resignation. Following his resignation speech, the club gave him a rising vote of appreciation for his services during his presidency.

A feature of the meeting was the address on "Human Influence," by Rev. Thomas H. Johnston, dean of St. Philip's cathedral. He declared "there are people in Atlanta who are exerting no more influence in inter-city, religious and political affairs here than the old Red Skin," who used to stand in front of cigar stores. He appealed to the members of the club to exert their influence for the good of Atlanta, and illustrated his point by referring to the achievements of individuals in past and modern times. He also appealed for brotherly love for the man who seems down and out or degraded.

Press Huddleston, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that the Jax saxophone quartet will play at next Tuesday's night. He introduced a resolution that the first Tuesday in February shall be visitory day. The resolution was adopted. Tuesday that Councilman Edgar Watkins will address the club next Tuesday. He will thoroughly discuss the new form of city government as provided in the proposed new charter which he seeks in a resolution introduced in council Monday night.

sulted. (This was an allusion to Queen Victoria's visit in 1849.)

Resents Insult to Lady.

"I do not come from the class of the deputy from Dublin. I come from the plain people of Ireland. The lady whose name was mentioned is, I understood, betrothed to some man. I know nothing of her personally in any way, but the statement made in this assembly of my nation to insult any lady of this nation or any other nation."

Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who succeeded Terence MacSwiney after the latter's death, deplored the heat displayed on both sides replacing the harmonious relations in the daily life in the past. He proposed that the question of ratifying the treaty be left to a plebiscite.

Lively interchanges followed a request by Michael Collins to intervene in the debate, so that he might make a suggestion in the interest of harmony. This was objected to by Countess Markievicz on the ground that it was out of order, which objection was indorsed by the speaker. It led, however, to a formal motion that Mr. Collins be heard. This was carried without division. He was permitted to make the suggestion, which, however, left the situation no better than when he started. His idea was to have no division at all on the question of ratification, but that the opponents should let the treaty go through and permit the provisional government to be set up, after which they could carry on their fight for a republic.

De Valera Unheard.

"You can redeem the country in this way," he said, "and take all kinds of honor and glory, and we can have all the shame and discredit." Eamon de Valera took issue with this suggestion, but was imperfectly heard in reply, and there were many different impressions of what he really said. But in effect it amounted to a refusal and the declaration that he and his followers would continue fighting in any event. His own proposal, which would have facilitated an agreement, had been turned down, he declared, by the other side.

DISORDERS SPREAD IN BELFAST

frame of mind to look on the proposition with more favor.

"If we could issue bonds right now it would be the greatest thing that could happen to us," he said. "We could put hundreds of miles and thousands of miles of roads and could build highways much cheaper than in the past and cheaper than they can be built in the future."

Mr. Holder said he will work in perfect harmony with the state highway department. He called on the newspapers for co-operation and said the legislature and counties would be asked to give full co-operation.

He asked all interests represented to give him their advice and said that if any person has any criticism to make of his department he would appreciate it if such persons would bring complaints to him in person.

Hardwick Speaks.

Governor Hardwick was then introduced and spoke briefly on his pleasure in having the opportunity of appointing Mr. Holder as chairman of the highway department.

"I appointed him because of the fact that in his capacity as speaker of the house of representatives he won the respect and confidence of that body and also the respect and confidence of the people of Georgia. I felt that such a man was needed to fill this important position at this time," the governor said.

The governor agreed with Mr. Holder that the time is not propitious now to submit the question of a bond issue to the people for ratification.

"This proposition has my full and hearty sympathy, but I don't believe it would be ratified now. If it were defeated it would be calamitous," the governor declared.

Mr. Neel, state highway engineer, told of the work of his department during the last two years, and spoke of the plans for the future. He said 275 miles of paved highways and 1,300 miles of graded roads top-surfaced, had been constructed in the last two years, and that $15,000,000 was spent in road construction in Georgia last year. No such sum, he added, would be spent in a single year in the near future.

Federal Aid Money.

"Most of the large amount of money available last year had accumulated in the federal aid fund, and when provision finally was made to accept this aid, the fund covered several years' appropriations," he said.

Mr. Neel pointed out the great need of amending the Georgia constitution so that it will be possible for Georgia to accept federal aid in the future.

"Through the Townsend amendment, the government hereafter will deal only with the state highway departments of the various states and by this method deal directly with the states and not with counties," he said.

"At present the highway department is simply the agent of counties. Senator Watson obtained an amendment to the federal highway laws which will grant Georgia and other states three years in which to revise their constitutions so that they will be in a position to accept state aid money. Unless this is done, future road construction in Georgia is fraught with grave dangers."

Among those present at the luncheon were Charles J. Haden, John N. Holder, Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, Joseph O. McDonald, chairman of the directors, Federal Reserve bank; Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution; John S. Cohen, editor of The Journal; James B. Nevin, editor of The Georgian; S. J. Elder, W. A. Niall, W. R. Neel, state highway engineer, and the following members of the state highway department: E. T. Cochran, A. A. Simon, S. B. Slack, H. W. Morgan, R. E. DeLoach, L. W. T. Nash, H. G. Spahr, M. S. Franklin.

An Appreciation and a Suggestion

With the passing of the year 1921 it affords us much pleasure to say that we have enjoyed a most satisfactory business; the best year in the history of our business.

This, of course, has been made possible by the continued patronage of our friends in Atlanta and throughout the South, some of whom we have never seen, but who are friends, just the same.

We appreciate the steady support that has been given us and that has made the year one of which we are proud.

Our entire organization has worked very hard to merit this patronage and assure you that we shall not relax in our efforts during the year just beginning.

We shall continue to give you the benefit of our long years of experience in the procuring of quality foods for you; our purchasing power; our conveniently located store with goods properly displayed, and with increased facilities in the way of more telephones and delivery trucks.

Our suggestion is that you get full value in the purchase of foods by selecting only those of real FIRST QUALITY, from a store that is a model of sanitary perfection and cleanliness, and fully protected by screening against contamination from the outside.

Food products that are cheap in price are generally most expensive and less palatable. They do not go as far, are not as nourishing, nor otherwise as satisfactory.

WHATEVER YOUR FOOD, PLAIN OR FANCY, BUY WISELY AND SEE THAT THE QUALITY IS THERE.

TWO AVIATORS DIE WHEN PLANE FALLS

Pensacola, Fla., January 3.—Lieutenant Frank Sloman, instructor in aviation at the United States naval air station here, and Lieutenant Hermann, United States marine corps, who arrived here today for instruction, were instantly killed at 4 o'clock this afternoon when the N-10 crashed to the ground from an elevation of 1,000 feet.

The accident occurred opposite Fort Barrancas. A diver soon afterward disengaged the bodies from the tangled wreckage.

At the time of the accident the machine was making a tailspin.

Lieutenant Hermann arrived in Pensacola this morning for instruction in aviation and was making his first flight. The accident was witnessed by many men at the station, including soldiers and sailors.

Lieutenant Sloman was married and leaves a widow and one child. His home was at Oakland, Cal.

Lieutenant Hermann's home was at Weston, W. Va.

SUITCASES STOLEN; $1,000 NOTES GONE

Harry J. Crider, of Andrews drive, reported to the police Tuesday night that his two suitcases were stolen about 8:30 o'clock in the Terminal station when he left them for a moment. They contained some clothing and a portfolio in which were some notes worth about $1,000.

SOUTH BOULEVARD CLUB IN SESSION

Members of the South Boulevard Improvement association met in regular session Tuesday evening at the home of A. E. Everett, 29 Rosalin street. Y. E. Green, vice president, presided, and a number of questions relative to proposed third ward improvements were discussed.

National Freight Rates Lowered, Council Is Told

Sims Says Committee Will Study Ocean Rates on "Kiddie Cars."

Aldermanic dignity was replaced by widespread grins, councilmanic sides shook with suppressed laughter, and the entire assemblage of city fathers in official session at the opening of the year 1922, for a few seconds laid aside the staid and sober routine of business and rocked with merriment when council's committee on freight rates and transportation solemnly read its report for the past year's activities.

There was, however, not a smile on the face of a single councilman. It was a serious business with them. They admitted that their report was one of "the most important submitted to council."

And small wonder. Had not freight rates and passenger fares throughout the nation been lowered and had not transportation—?

Here's the report. But read the report for yourself. It's self-explanatory. Here it is:

"Your committee on freight rates and transportation has had a most difficult situation to contend with during the past year. It faced an abnormal condition occasioned by the war and its attendant evils of high rates and disturbed business relations.

"The mayor, however, doubtless having in mind the difficulties of the situation, followed a long established precedent and used great care in the selection of your committee. Your committee felt keenly the honor done them and went about their duties modestly but with a deep feeling of responsibility.

"Unlike other council committees, whose duties are confined solely to local affairs and are therefore more or less simplified, the work of this committee has to do largely with problems originating beyond the confines of the city limits, therefore making its duties more complex and its responsibilities greater.

"Watchful Waiting." "Noting with what signal success the policy of watchful waiting has been met with in the relations of our national government with the sister republic to the south, your committee adopted this policy and are glad to say that their action has been fully vindicated by results.

"We are gratified to state that freight rates and Pullman fares have been reduced and that the national tax on travel and trade has been removed. To these very practical, tangible results we point with pride. These results have been obtained without the expenditure of a single dollar from the city treasury, and yet mean a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the citizens of Atlanta. We invite a comparison of these accomplishments with those of other committees which have done nothing but spend the people's money.

"We regret that we are unable to make so favorable a report on our local transportation problem. We attribute the failure in a measure to the fact that we have not had the cooperation of the mayor as fully in dealing with this matter, as he has rendered in regard to our more successful undertakings. We feel, however, that notwithstanding this handicap, we are one year closer to a satisfactory solution of the problem than we were at the beginning of the year. In this thought we find some consolation."

Statement of Sims.

Councilman J. N. Renfro, chairman of the 1921 committee, appeared to be gratified at the selection of Councilman Walter Sims as his successor, declaring that in his opinion, Mr. Sims knows more about freight rates than any other member of council save himself.

In assuming the reins of transportation leadership, Councilman Sims declared he will give his best efforts to the important post during the year. He expressed confidence that national transportation rates can be further reduced by the committee, and indicated that he and his colleagues will spend most of their time investigating inter-ocean rates on "kiddie cars" between Savannah and Vladivostok and other Siberian points.

"The future of our fair city is deeply concerned with this important matter," he said. "If the committee can solve this problem, it will probably turn its attention to transportation penalties inflicted on planes traveling between California points and Atlanta boarding house tables. Further than this, I am not prepared just yet to discuss our future activities."

NAMES GRANDSON FOR STATE SPEAKER

Gainesville, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—I. F. Duncan has named his young grandson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Dean Duncan, Cecil Neill Duncan, in honor of Cecil Neill, of Columbus, speaker of the Georgia house of representatives. Mr. Duncan took a prominent part in Mr. Neill's campaign for the speakership last summer.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS DISCUSSED BY CLUB

Plans for the paving of Hill street, repairing of Milton avenue, widening of McDonough road and installation of plumbing in homes situated in the Federal prison district of the city were discussed Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the Milton Avenue Community club in the Milton avenue school auditorium.

It is understood that Councilman Fred C. Woodhill will present the matter of street lighting for the Federal prison strip to city council at its next regular meeting, and definite action on all plans is expected soon.

DILLINGHAM GETS MEDAL FOR HEROISM

For heroic action in saving the life of another telephone employee at the risk of his own life, Cornelius H. Dillingham, manager of the Southern Bell Telephone company at Lakeland, Fla., was presented with the Theodore N. Vail medal Tuesday night. The presentation was made by J. M. B. Hoxsey, vice president of the Southern Bell system, at the regular monthly meeting of the Telephone and Telegraph society. He was one of six Bell employees in the south to receive the award.

Mayor Key made a brief address. The entertainment program included songs by a quartet composed of J. C. Lower, Oscar A. Spruell, Len E. Nash and J. Albert Wilson, accompanied by Miss Frances Minor; songs, by Mrs. George D. Tiller, accompanied by Miss Marion Cook; solos by John L. Rockwell, violinist, accompanied by Miss Lula Hand; selections by Miss Christine Burger, pianist, and readings by Mrs. D. B. Sinclair.

HEARING ON ARMY HANGINGS TODAY

Washington, January 3.—The senate committee investigating charges by Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, that American soldiers were hanged without trial in France will resume its public hearings tomorrow with the prospect of many lively sessions.

Word reached the committee today that Major Hermon L. O'Neil, of Staunton, Va., commander of the third battalion, 116th infantry, accused by Henry L. Scott, of Kenmore, Ohio, of having shot two soldiers "without provocation," would be on hand tomorrow with counsel to enter formal denial of the charges.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB HOLDS ITS SESSION

Approval of the movement to secure a park for East Atlanta and to erect a school building for the Whiteford avenue section was voiced by the Eleventh Ward Improvement club Tuesday night in session in its clubrooms on Whiteford avenue. The organization also voted to take steps to get ten more street lights for the ward and to extend fire facilities.

Discussion of the proposed charter change and zoning plan were added features, and speakers also took up the matter of gas service for the section. D. E. Freeman, president; J. T. Hunt, secretary; J. H. Hambrick and H. F. Lee were speakers.

NEGRO BURGLAR LOSES HIS LOOT WHILE ESCAPING

A negro burglar, surprised in the act of robbing the home of Mrs. H. C. Graham, at 11 East Ontario avenue, escaped early Tuesday night with a pocketbook containing $15 through an open window, through which he had effected entrance to the home. The family was seated in the living room, and when a noise was heard in an adjoining room, members surprised the black with the pocketbook open in his hand.

The pocketbook contained $35, but, in his haste to escape, the burglar dropped $20. Detectives were assigned to the case and are making an investigation.

BOTH SIDES READY IN SHOOTING CASE

Solicitor John A. Boykin and Attorney Len B. Guilbeau, counsel for Mrs. Estelle Williams, who is charged with the murder of N. L. Post, announced Tuesday that they will be ready for the trial of Mrs. Williams when the case is called Wednesday morning in Judge John D. Humphries' court. The shooting attracted much attention at the time it occurred in the home of the defendant on Ormond street, November 23.

PLAYMATES SAVE CHILD FROM FLAMES

T. G. Phillips, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Phillips, of 185 Jones avenue, who was painfully burned Tuesday, when his clothing became ignited while playing in the front yard of his home, was reported resting easily last night at Grady hospital. The lad was playing with several other children, and the latter, seeing his clothes afire, quickly ran to him and smothered the flames in some old clothes, saving him from serious, perhaps fatal, injuries.

EXTENSION COURSES STARTED BY EMORY

Atlanta people who wish to complete a college course dropped a few years ago, or who would like to increase their store of knowledge by taking several courses in the languages, sciences and other subjects, have their opportunity with the opening of the Emory extension classes, which are being held at Commercial High school. The courses, which began Tuesday, are similar to those offered in the larger universities of the north.

For ten weeks the extension classes will be continued under the professors of the Emory faculty. Two classes will be held every afternoon at the high school, unless a more convenient location is found. The time at which these classes will meet will be from 3 o'clock, from Tuesday through Friday.

Credit will be given at Emory university for the work done in the extension school should the student decide to enter there. Six courses will be instituted at present, and if these are well attended, others will be added.

PILCHER RESIGNS AS CITY MANAGER

The government here cannot be expected to be run successfully if he remains as city manager. When you have the public against you, you might as well quit. I am for the interest of the city."

The resolution was seconded by J. A. Campbell, newly-elected to the commission. The vote on the resolution was three "nays"—Commissioners W. J. Dabney, C. E. Allen and Guy Webb, and two "yeas."

It was immediately following the defeat of this resolution that City Manager Pilcher presented the following written resignation:

"Please accept this as my resignation as city manager of the town of Decatur, Ga., effective at the end of the first quarter of the year, 1922."

The cause of the resignation was the debate of the meeting. Commissioners George and Campbell wanted a vote taken on accepting or refusing the resignation, whereupon Mr. Pilcher declared that "when a man resigns it is not necessary to vote on it. The city's charter says that the city manager is not a city manager by death, resignation or removal. When I resign, I resign, and I quit no matter how the board of commissioners vote."

The debate was continued, but on a motion to accept the manager's resignation, there was no more opposition and the resignation was accepted.

Relative to the cause of Mr. Pilcher's resignation the following letter written by him on November 2, 1921, to W. J. Dabney, mayor of Decatur, and chairman of the board of commissioners, is quoted:

"I have decided to resign my position as city manager of Decatur about the first of the New Year, 1922."

"This decision has not been reached because of any lack of cordiality between your honorable board and myself, the most cordial relations having always existed; but because of political complications outside of the board—which in my opinion will inevitably hamper the whole city government for a long time to come."

COMMISSIONERS SWORE IN

Prior to the introduction of Commissioner George's resolution, Judge J. R. George swore in Homer F. George, as commissioner re-elected for 1922, and J. A. Campbell, commissioner-elect.

Then Commissioner W. J. Dabney was re-elected mayor and chairman of the board of commissioners, and C. Eugene Allen was re-elected vice chairman of the board.

To fill vacancies caused on the board of assessors by the removal of citizens from the town, James A. Campbell and William Alden were elected.

A petition by the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation to build an ice plant on Drexel avenue, which was refused recently by the board, again was read and refused.

The plans of Mr. Pilcher for the future are not known. He is a native of Richmond, Va., and is experienced in municipal government. He came to Decatur on recommendation on January 1, 1921, to take charge of the newly-formed commission government of Decatur.

"4. The attack of Baron Ungern-Sternberg, from Mongolia, was organized by the Japanese.

"5. The Japanese are aiming, under guise of establishing a 'democracy' of bandit Semenov to create a government which they would practically control.

"6. The Japanese are aiming to control economically the Far Eastern republic and to make secure for themselves special privileges and concessions."

U. S. Wants Evacuation.

Japan's failure to withdraw her troops from Siberia, as provided in the agreement entered into in 1918 by the United States, Japan, Great Britain and France, will be aired before the arms conference.

The United States government today, as it has repeatedly stated during the last two years, believes that Japan is duty-bound to evacuate Siberia. The Japanese government, however, takes the same attitude today that she has in answer to previous American representations, namely, that Japanese interests must be properly safeguarded in Siberia before Japanese troops can be withdrawn; that Japan is willing to withdraw her troops when these safeguards have been assured, and that Japan recognizes the obligation to withdraw under the four-power agreement entered into during the war.

Meantime, the charges of the Chita government of eastern Siberia—that Japan and France had involved themselves in an intrigue to establish a protectorate over Siberia in their own mutual interests and in opposition to the purposes of the American government—received their first recognition at the hands of Secretary Hughes, Tuesday. In a letter answering Mr. Sarraut's denial on the part of France of the Chita delegation's charges, declared he was glad to accept your statement that the documents in question are not authentic.

No Substantiation.

Further, it was declared authoritatively at the state department, this government's files fail to reveal any official document from its properly delegated representatives in the Orient, tending to substantiate the charges made by the Chita representatives.

Hughes' letter to Sarraut follows: "I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of January 2, in which you refer to the text alleged official documents said to have passed between the French and Japanese governments and given to the press by representatives of the alleged Chita government of eastern Siberia.

"I am gratified to learn that the French government formally denies that it has come to any agreement concerning any negotiations concerning the status of Siberia and am glad to accept your statement that the documents in question are not authentic."

To Air Question.

This particular situation, however, does not affect in any way the position of Secretary Hughes to bring up in its proper place on the agenda, the question of Siberian problems, particularly as regards preservation of territorial rights and withdrawal of foreign troops and other questions involving Siberia in much the same way as they have involved China.

The situation now of prime importance is, "Who will be the next city manager?"

When the original four-power agreement was made in 1918 between Japan, the United States, Great Britain and France, it provided that all should send some troops into Siberia to protect the withdrawal of some Czechoslovak forces. It was stipulated in this agreement both that the territorial integrity of Russia should be preserved and respected and that, under the safe evacuation of the Czech troops, the forces of the four powers should be immediately withdrawn.

Japs Fail To Withdraw.

The troops of the United States, England and France were withdrawn, but the Japanese have retained their troops in Siberia. In response to representations made by the United States to Japan, both during the Wilson administration and last summer, by Secretary Hughes, noting Japan's failure to abide by her agreement, Japan contended that her nationals and holdings in Siberia, demanded protection by her troops until the unsettled state of affairs had changed.

That is still her position today.

The Siberians countered the official French denials of an understanding with the Japanese by issuing a statement repeating their belief in the authenticity of documents they made public. They replied, as well, to the French charge that the Far Eastern republic was "pseudo republic" with a declaration that it had an area of a million square miles, and a population of two millions.

They said they expected direct replies from the French on a number of specific points, dealt with in the documents. These were chiefly as to whether or not France had aided General Semenov, or transported the troops of General Wrangel from southern Russia.

January Sale of 3,100 New Blouses

$35,000 Worth to Sell for $19,300

—Enter with January—our Annual Sale of Blouses. This year there are 3,100 new and fashionable blouses—the largest purchase at one time ever made in our history. —Recently we went into the market to buy for this Sale. Few tailored suits were sold during the Autumn. At that time manufacturers had had difficulty in disposing of their blouses. Fearing a repetition of this, when confronted with our order they were willing to sacrifice large quantities at half price.

—Late predictions from the best style authorities are that tailored suits will play an important part in the fashions of Spring. As soon as the coming season begins in earnest and the demand for blouses is pronounced, blouse prices will soar.

Blouses, $1.29
Worth $2.50

—About 200 blouses in striped and checked dimities. There are about four different styles, with Tuxedo or Bramley collars, finished with little knife pleating around the collar and cuffs. Sizes run from 36 to 42. All have long sleeves. An excellent blouse for business wear.

Blouses, $1.95
Worth $3.50

—300 blouses of dimity in this group. Striped and checked patterns. Fully eight or ten different styles. Tuxedo or Bramley collars. Finished with pleating, rick-rack or Irish edge around the collar and cuffs. Sizes 32 to 44. Long sleeves. Lovely for wear with sweaters.

Blouses, $3.45
Worth $5.75

—In this group are 125 blouses of striped crepe de Chine. In tailored styles with convertible collars. A good range of sizes. The tailored woman will delight in these blouses. Lovely colors.

Blouses, $3.85
Worth $5.75 to $7.50

—Handmade blouses of voile or batiste. You may select from many beautiful styles, including Tuxedos, square neck effects and a few with Bramley collars. Sizes range from 32 to 38.

Blouses, $4.95
Worth $7.50 to $10

—Tailored blouses of crepe de Chine and Habutal silk. Also a few in stripes and radiums. In colors such as white, flesh, bisque, navy and black. Sizes from 36 to 46. Excellent blouses for business wear with tailored suits. Very, very good for $4.95 to buy!

Blouses, $4.65
Worth $7.50 to $10

—About 200 suit blouses of crepe de Chine or Georgette. Most of them in dark shades such as navy, black, bisque, honeydew and zinc. Many styles, beaded, braided or lace trimmed. Both long and short sleeves. Buy a full supply for spring suit wear.

Blouses, $8.95
Worth $13.50 to $19.75

—Suit blouses in the newest styles for spring. The Peasant blouse and overblouse and smock designs. Crepe de Chine and Georgette. Black, navy, jade, honeydew, white, flesh and bisque. Majority are short sleeves. 36 to 46.

Blouses, $2.85
Worth $4.50

—150 beautiful handmade blouses of batiste. Many different styles to select from, some lace trimmed. In Tuxedo and square neck effects. All fresh and clean and new! A nice range of sizes from 32 to 46. The batiste is excellent, and the handwork exquisitely wrought.

Blouses, $2.95
Worth $5

—A beautiful assortment of about 300 blouses. Of crepe de Chine and Georgette in various styles, both overblouse and regulation models. Lace trimmed, or finished with beading and braiding. White, black, navy, scarlet, zinc, mesh, Mohawk and brown.

Blouses, $3.95
Worth $5.75

—150 blouses of crepe de Chine. In tailored styles only. Some have convertible collars, others show collars in Peter Pan or square neck effects. White, flesh, navy and black. Well made.

Blouses, $5.45
Worth $8.50 to $10

—100 handmade French voile and batiste blouses. Elaborately trimmed with fillet, Irish and real Valenciennes lace. Some are dainty with little frills and Peter Pan collars, while others affect roll and square necks. Every blouse is unusually pretty.

Blouses, $6.95
Worth $10 to $12.50

—Very elaborate handmade voiles. The sheerest quality voile, daintily trimmed with Irish and fillet lace. Both white and flesh. The style assortment is unusually large. Tuxedos, roll collars and other becoming effects. All long sleeves. In a nice range of sizes from 32 to 46.

Blouses, $12.95
Worth $19.75 to $35

—100 fine blouses of Georgette and crepe de Chine, bisque and navy, fungi and Mohawk, beige and henna, gray, navy, black, white, flesh, orchid and carmen. Elaborately beaded in crystal and colored beads.

LEAGUE TO SEEK RAIL RATE CUTS

An agreement that the Southern Traffic league will participate in the reduced rate proceedings before the interstate commerce commission, through its committee and counsel at the next session of the commission in Washington on January 9, was reached at the meeting of the league held in the Piedmont hotel Tuesday afternoon. Evidence will be presented at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission designed to show that freight rates should be reduced.

Legislation and traffic policies generally were the other topics for discussion at the afternoon meeting. The adoption of the new uniform domestic and foreign bills of lading was urged. Claims of shippers against the railroad administration, growing out of federal control of the roads, also were considered.

40 Members Present.

About 40 members of the league drawn from the principal traffic organizations of the south were present at the meeting, as well as representatives of industries organized in the south materially interested in the reduction of freight rates, such as the coal, cotton seed products, building material and naval stores interests.

At the morning session the principal subject for discussion was the question of the reduction of freight rates and railroad wages, which will be considered at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission in Washington. Taking a liberal view of the freight rate problem, the members of the league recognized the pressure that is being brought to bear on the roads by both the public and the shippers, though at the same time they are familiar with the problems that the railroads are facing, and are anxious to view the question from all angles. J. T. Ryan, of High Point, N. C., president of the league, and secretary of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association, presided at both the morning and afternoon meetings. The principal speakers at the morning session were George Forrester, of Atlanta, traffic manager of the Southern Cotton Oil Manufacturers' association; F. M. McCaskie, of Montgomery, Ala., manager of the Montgomery Transportation bureau; T. M. Henderson, commissioner of the Nashville, Tenn., Traffic bureau and W. D. Nelson, of the Jacksonville, Fla., Traffic bureau.

NEGRO MINISTERS ELECT OFFICIALS

The A. M. E. Ministers' union of Atlanta met in regular session Tuesday morning, Rev. W. J. Williams, pastor of Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church, presiding. Officers for the new year were elected as follows: Rev. C. A. Winfield, one of the leading presiding elders of the sixth Episcopal district, president; Rev. J. T. Wilkerson, vice president; Rev. L. A. Townsley, secretary; Rev. J. R. Fleming, treasurer; Rev. E. R. Holmes, president of Holmes institute, reporter, and President J. H. Lewis, of Morris Brown university, critic. Rev. W. J. Williams, retiring president, paid a high tribute to the union for the constructive work it has done toward development of the race along Christian lines in the city.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING BEING CONSTRUCTED

Construction of a modern two-story building, which will cost approximately $30,000, has begun adjacent to the Metropolitan building, at Nos. 39, 61, 63, 65, 67 Forsyth street, the places occupied up till January 1 by L. W. Rogers' Grocery company, Varelo's restaurant, J. L. Carroll's Auto Supplies company, Spider Taxi company, the Atlanta Sandwich company and Harry Colbert, tailor. The construction is in the hands of the A. K. Adams company, and R. S. Pringle is architect. Morris Brandon is the owner. When the building is finished, which will be in about 90 days, it will contain space for five stores on the first or street floor, and the second floor will be used for offices.

DR. HULL IS PRESIDENT OF BILLY SUNDAY CLUB

Dr. Marion McH. Hull, of 35 Peachtree circle, took over the duties of president of the Billy Sunday Business Men's club at its meeting at North Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday. The club celebrated its fourth anniversary at this meeting, which was held in the same church in which the club was first organized. Similar clubs have been started in Columbia, Spartanburg and Greenville, S. C.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Montgomery, Ala.; Jacksonville, Fla., and in many Georgia cities.

Shops in Atlanta Provide Costumes for 'Broadway Whirl'

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF.
If you have been to the Atlanta theater this week, you perchance have noticed that the costumes of the chorus is not only gorgeous, which frequently happens, but is new, which infrequently happens. Had you seen the performers whirl through "The Broadway Whirl" on their first visit to Atlanta during November you would further notice that the costumes of the choruses is different now from the costumes then, and the change has not been for the worse—far from it.

MRS. JOHN HENRY MEARS.

All of which brings about the tale, the moral of which is that it's dangerous to turn one's wife loose in a shopping district, particularly when the wife has an eye for colors and an aptitude for artistry.

John Henry Mears is owner and manager of "The Broadway Whirl." Incidentally he is the husband of Mrs. John Henry Mears, and Mrs. Mears is along with the troupe.

Intends to Be Useful.
Mrs. Mears has no particular job with the organization, but she is determined to be useful as well as ornamental, and goodness knows she is ornamental enough, as thousands will testify who saw her as the charming Daisy DeWitt through Mr. Ziegfeld's "Midnight Frolic" and whirl through "The Century Whirl," from which proud estate she was relegated to matrimony.

Being obsessed with this idea of usefulness, when the troupe was in Atlanta in November she was looking out for the main chance while the shopping tour through Atlanta's Rue de la Pay. There she was astounded to discover that she could buy gorgeous materials for equally gorgeous costumes at prices that would make even a hide-bound New Yorker admit that there is something else on earth besides those things confined to Manhattan and the Bronx.

Breaks Speed Record.
Seeing these bargains—and no woman since Eve has ever resisted their lure—Mrs. Mears bought with a lavish and at the same time an economical hand. And having acquired the materials she went about getting them into costumes. She said something about having made sixteen robes in twenty-four hours with the assistance of two seamstresses, or having made twenty-four robes in sixteen hours with the same assistance—but, anyhow, she worked overtime and the present costumes of the "Whirl" is largely the work of her own fair fingers and her own excellent judgment in shopping in Atlanta instead of New York.

Child Is Injured When Hit by Auto; Reports Are Meager

Vallie Hall, 15-year-old schoolgirl, whose home is on DeFore avenue, was struck by an automobile driven by an unidentified man Tuesday afternoon on the Crook road, near Howell Mill road and acquired a broken leg and several bruises as the result of the accident.

From meager reports made to the police, it seems that the child was on her way home from school and was struck by the fender of the car and knocked down. It is understood that the driver did not slacken speed, but left the child lying in the road. She was picked up and carried to Grady hospital, where her wounds were treated and she was later transferred to her home.

MARRIAGES SHOW DECREASE IN COUNTY

A decrease in the number of marriage licenses issued in 1921, in comparison with those issued in 1920, is shown in the figures compiled Tuesday in the office of Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary. In 1920 there were 3,297 marriage licenses issued, while in 1921 the number dwindled to 4,225, a decrease of 1,072. The decrease was proportionately equal among white and colored people. The number of matrimonial contracts issued to white people in 1920 was 3,258, while last year the number was 2,727; for blacks in the same years, the number decreased from 2,059 to 1,498.

It was also pointed out that the number of insane people committed to the state insane asylum has slumped.

Judge Jeffries said Tuesday that about 110 people had been committed to the state insane asylum during 1921, which, he says, is the smallest number sent to that institution from Fulton county in a number of years.

COMMUNITY CHORUS TO MEET TONIGHT

In preparation for presenting the opera "Travista," which will be given in April, the members of the community chorus have been asked by Signor E. Volpi, conductor, to meet at 7:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the chamber of commerce Wednesday evening, bringing with them their scores.

Members of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., students of colleges and high schools, as well as members of church choirs and musical associations, have been invited to join the chorus.

LOWMAN IS HOST TO AD OFFICIALS AT DINNER PARTY

George Lowman, president of the Atlanta Advertising club, was host to chairman of standing committees of the organization Tuesday night at the Piedmont hotel at a dinner planned to speed up the work of the club. He stressed the need of perfect co-operation within the club and saw a brilliant prospect for local ad men if all shoulders are put to the wheel in unison.

Dave Webb, former president of the club, was a speaker, others delivering talks including: Beaumont, Davison, Frank Lowenstein, Al Lovinood, Roy Booker, B. C. Broyles and others. The dinner was one of the most elaborate ever staged here.

SOUTHERN WELFARE CONFERENCE TODAY

The southern conference of state departments of public welfare will begin a two-day session at the Wincoff hotel at 10 o'clock this morning, the conference bringing together executive heads of welfare departments of six southern states, with Burr Blackburn, secretary of the Georgia board, acting as host.

Among those in attendance will be J. Croft Williams, of the South Carolina board; W. Baxter Gass, of the Tennessee board; Mrs. Clarence A. Johnson, of the North Carolina board; Mrs. L. C. Bush, of the Alabama board; Mrs. Margaret Ford, of the Arkansas board, and representatives of the Georgia board. The conference will be entertained at lunch by the Atlanta Social Workers' club at the Kimball house private dining room.

Programs of departments on the care of the dependent, delinquent, defective and neglected classes in the south will be carefully discussed, methods analyzed and experiences exchanged. Most of the southern states face the same problems, and since the welfare department is now an established feature of state government throughout the south, advantages of conference and consultation are not being neglected.

Employment Office For Tugalo Project To Be Opened Today

An employment office to handle hundreds of applications being received by the Georgia Railway and Power company for work on the big Tugalo power development in north Georgia will be established this morning at 90 Decatur street, according to announcement Tuesday by officials of the company.

Upon announcement Sunday that work would begin immediately on this project, offices of the power company were visited by hundreds who wished to obtain work. There are already 200 men on the Tugalo job and others will be added as the demand increases up to 1,000 men by the middle of the summer.

WISCONSIN SOLONS FOES IN POLITICS

Lenroot Is Reported to Have Sought Ousting of La Follette From Republican Ranks.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, January 3.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—A war to the finish has developed between Senator Robert M. La Follette and Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin.

Mr. Lenroot is seeking to have his former friend and political supporter outlived as a republican by his party colleagues in the senate, but so far has failed. Mr. La Follette is seeking to have Mr. Lenroot placed definitely as a reactionary republican instead of a "sane progressive," as Mr. Lenroot calls himself.

Political patronage figures to no small extent in the fight, which is expected to increase in intensity as the time for Senator La Follette to stand for re-election next fall draws near. It has just been established in Washington that Lenroot formally proposed in a recent meeting of the senate committee on committees that La Follette be read out of the republican party.

Opposed by Moses.
Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, an old guard protectionist on tariff matters, but an ally of Senator La Follette in the fight to kill the Versailles treaty and the league of nations covenant, opposed the move of Lenroot. Senator Moses asserted that when a senator won the party nomination in a republican primary and was elected as a republican, the other republican senators had no right to outlive him or question his party affiliation simply because he did not vote "regular" on administration or party measures.

Reports of the executive session at which Lenroot proposed to oust his colleague from the party, all of which have been carefully guarded until the last few days, are that the junior Wisconsin senator exhibited copies of La Follette's weekly in an effort to show that the senior senator was not loyal to the republican party in the last campaign and sought to defeat President Harding. It is understood that these copies were shown at the White House in the early days of the present administration before it had definitely decided that La Follette should be ignored in the distribution of federal patronage in Wisconsin.

Many Ramifications.
The fight between the Wisconsin senators has many ramifications. It has created strong affiliation in the senate for both men. For many years Senator La Follette was a bitter and outspoken antagonist of Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, but after the old guard leaders in the senate blocked the move to unseat La Follette for his Minnesota speech in war time, the two senators greeted each other as "Bob" and "Bones." Senator Moses and Senator La Follette frequently are seen with their heads together in the senate floor, and Senator Moses does not hesitate to say kind words for the senior senator from Wisconsin.

On the other hand, Senator Lenroot is looked upon as an administration spokesman on some politics. He and Vice President Coolidge have many confidential discussions in the lounge room back of the senate chamber. When it has been necessary to work out a compromise to get through an administration measure, as when the agricultural bloc threatened to join the democratic minority and defeat the republican proposals on excess profits, tax repeal and reductions in the higher surtaxes, Lenroot frequently has acted as the go-between.

La Follette and the republican members of the house of representatives who are his supporters in Wisconsin, believe they have maneuvered Lenroot into a position most distasteful to him as a result of his attempt to act as patronage distributor not only on statewide appointments, which usually are made upon recommendations of the senators, but on postoffice appointments within districts represented by La Follette republicans.

La Follette's Tactics.
La Follette and his sympathizers in the house have pursued a consistent policy of recommending veterans of the world war and out-and-out progressives for federal appointments, and have sought to put Lenroot "in a hole," forcing him to recommend conservative republicans for the places. They do not hesitate to assert that he is depending on the indorsements of ex-convicts and politicians throughout the state in filling minor postoffice vacancies where he could not be familiar with the qualifications of the various candidates.

La Follette republicans, like Representative J. D. Beck, of Wisconsin, whose postoffice patronage has been taken out of their hands, claim that the loss of their postoffice appointments is helping instead of hurting them in their districts. Had they recognized the distributors they would have had to choose in most cases from a field of ten or twelve political friends, and each man who did not get the appointment would be angered by his failure. As it is now, it is asserted, they leave these offices to Lenroot to worry about.

La Follette admitted before leaving Washington for Wisconsin that he was going back to look after his political friends. Lenroot recently has made several trips to the state for the same purpose.

REV. A. M. PIERCE
LEADS PRAYER MEETING SERVICE

With an attendance more than twice as large as that of the previous day, the third midday prayer meeting of the church of the Holy Trinity, of the week of prayer, observed all over the United States, was held in the gymnasium of the Y. W. C. A. on the fourth floor of the Arcade building, Tuesday. Services were conducted by Rev. A. M. Pierce, pastor of Druid Hills Methodist church, who spoke on "The Church Universal."

Dr. Pierce came here after the last session of the North Georgia Conference, and has entered into the cooperative work being undertaken by the churches of Atlanta.

Bishop H. J. Mikell, of the Episcopal diocese of Atlanta, will lead the noon services today, the topic for this discussion being "Nations and Their Leaders." This meeting will have a special bearing on international cooperation, which will be featured by a prayer for the success of the arms conference in Washington.

Those in charge of the 12 o'clock prayer meeting for Wisconsin men of the city who are unable to attend their respective churches during the day feel encouraged over the response to the services.

More Violators Of Liquor Laws Caught in Dixie

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, January 3.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—Records obtained today from the bureau of internal revenue for the last fiscal year show that throughout the south, from which section came many of the 100 per cent prohibition representatives in congress, violations of the law were greatest.

Comparisons to show either the excellent work of officers or the great number of violations and the great opportunity for enforcement work brought out that southern states led through the country.

In the number of arrests made, Ohio, the home of the Anti-Saloon league and the home of President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty, led with 3,354. The other leading states were New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Texas, California, Missouri, Georgia and North Carolina.

Still Worms Seized.
In the number of still worms seized North Carolina led with 2,287. Other leading states were Virginia, Tennessee, Ohio, South Carolina and Georgia.

In the number of stills seized North Carolina led with 1,551. Other leading states were Georgia, Virginia, Alabama, Tennessee, and South Carolina.

In the number of fermenters seized Georgia led with 15,801. Other leading states were North Carolina, Alabama, Virginia, Tennessee and South Carolina.

In the number of gallons of distilled spirits seized New York led with 65,060 gallons, and California was second with 63,818. Other leading states were Pennsylvania, Ohio, Washington, Georgia and Oregon.

Most Beer in Georgia.
In the number of gallons of beer seized Georgia led with 1,402,908. Other leading states were North Carolina with 1,204,488; Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee.

In the number of gallons of wine, cider and pomace seized California led with 99,308. Other leading states were Virginia, Minnesota, North Carolina and Illinois.

In the value of property seized Florida led with $2,044,746. Other leading states were New York, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Alabama.

CALLAWAY NAMED AS ASSISTANT TO CITY RECORDER

A. W. Callaway, for a number of years connected with the Atlanta police department as assistant station lieutenant, was appointed recorder pro tem, by city council and will begin his new duties within the next few days.

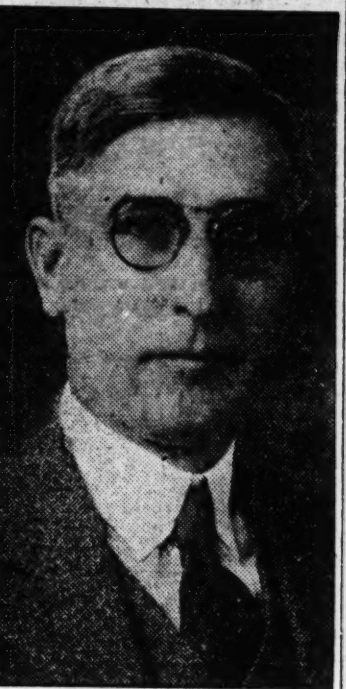

Mr. Callaway has served continuously with the department for more than ten years, the last few of which he has been detailed as bookkeeper in charge of the water record. He won his appointment over Drew Liddell, who has held the position temporarily since the discharge several months ago of J. A. McKenry by Recorder Johnson. His appointment differs from that of his two predecessors, in that they were merely recorders, while Mr. Callaway's is recorder pro tem.

He will retain his identity as a member of the Atlanta police department, but will be released from all active duty in this connection to enable him to give all of his time to the duties of his new office.

WILLIAMS HEADS AUTO TRADE BODY

Thad Hucklebee, of Albany; A. H. Reed, of Columbus; R. C. Dunlap, of Macon; C. A. Trussell, of Athens; G. W. Gilmore, of Sandersville, and Ed Duggan, of Hawkinsville, were named directors for their districts for a two-year period. E. B. Sinkler, of Savannah, and J. N. Stinson, of Waycross, were elected to the directorate for one-year periods.

All of the officers and directors were elected unanimously, after being proposed by a nominating committee from the floor. Mr. Williams is the first man to be re-elected president of the association.

The annual report of Executive Secretary P. A. McGehee, outlined the successful work of the association during the past year, and was accepted by the body, after a vote of thanks was given the officers. Mr. McGehee was re-elected for 1922.

The announcements of the association were changed, so that dealers from the smaller counties are permitted to become members at a lower rate than those in the larger cities. The new schedule of dues ranges from $15 to $80 instead of a flat $80 fee as in the past.

Crop Marketing.
A. A. Gilmore, representing the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative Marketing association, addressed the convention, on the advantages of co-money crop. The association adopted operative marketing of the south's resolutions indorsing this movement.

The principal speaker of the day was George W. Hanson, president of the Hanson Motor company. Mr. Hanson's address showed faith in the future of the automobile business, and the probability of a profitable business this year. But there was a complete absence of the reckless optimism so pronounced among automobile men during the period of war prosperity.

His admonition to the dealers to continue work, and put as many other men to work as possible, was received with applause. Mr. Hanson made no effort to discount the period of depression through which the country as a whole is passing, but rather made a plea for finding and applying a remedy.

The round-table discussion which followed Mr. Hanson's talk brought pledges from the automobile men to follow Mr. Hanson's suggestion to employ as many unemployed men as possible, even at the expense of wage scales.

Mr. Hanson told the men that his factory has adopted the policy of employing more men, and as far as possible, dividing the payroll among a greater number of people, so that all former employees would have an opportunity to earn a living.

Business Film Shown.
Through the courtesy of E. H. Baughman, manager of the Osburn Abston company, a film produced by the large automobile and equipment manufacturing industry, under the direction of Ray Sherman, was shown, following the luncheon.

This film illustrated many methods which the Ford motor company has increased its profits by increasing sales and properly controlling the purchasing and merchandising of automotive equipment. The film had a strong message of advertising whatever it being, as Mr. Baughman explained it, an effort on the part of the manufacturers and dealers to increase the business through improving merchandising service which the dealers offer their customers.

BANK CONDITION
CALL IS ISSUED
FOR DECEMBER 31

Washington, January 3.—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for the condition of all national banks at the close of business on Saturday, December 31.

CALL IS ISSUED FOR CONDITION OF STATE BANKS

T. R. Bennett, superintendent of the state banking department, Tuesday issued a call on all state banks for a statement of their condition as of December 31, 1921. The statements must be sent to the state banking department within ten days or penalties will be inflicted.

In issuing his call for a statement, Mr. Bennett sent out a letter to stockholders and directors of state banks urging them to co-operate strongly in the active officials in charge of the banks.

The state call was issued for the same date as the call for statements sent to national banks recently, both being as of December 31, 1921.

NEW PRINCIPAL OF MARIST COLLEGE IN CHARGE TODAY

Today Father McKelmer enters upon his new duties as principal of Marist college, as a result of the transfer of Father Louis Pelletier, principal for the last five years, to the Catholic university. Father McKelmer's former position at Marist, that of teacher of science and mathematics, will be filled by Father Philip Hannon, formerly professor at the Catholic university at Washington, District of Columbia.

DISCUSS HEARING ON GAS RATE ORDER

Judge E. J. Reagan, special counsel for the state railroad commission, held a conference Tuesday with Chairman C. Murphy Candler, of the commission, concerning the hearing of the temporary injunction issued by Judge Samuel Sibley, of the United States court, halting enforcement of the railroad commission's recent order reducing gas rates in Atlanta 10 cents a thousand cubic feet. The hearing will be held Saturday.

It was learned Tuesday that two other federal judges will sit with Judge Sibley in the case, these being Judge W. L. Walker, of Huntsville, Ala., and Judge Beverly D. Evans, of Macon.

After the conference Judge Reagan said he had no statement to make other than that he will begin work immediately preparing the state's side of the case. The Georgia Railway and Power company took the case to the federal court after the commission ordered the rate reduction.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS OF WOODMEN LODGES

New officers for Capital City camp, No. 786, W. O. W., will be installed at the Red and White wigwam at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. C. H. Nelson, prominent Atlanta Woodman, will direct the ceremonies, and at the same time will install new officers for Maple Grove, No. 89, Woodmen circle Grove.

Dr. Herbert Kennedy, prominent young physician, will be seated as consul commander. Other new officers are: Craddock Goins, advisor; lieutenant: George White, banker; L. W. Florio, secretary; L. M. Dearden, watchman; Henry C. Claitor, sentry; George A. Wright, Moore E. Hill and M. U. Smith, auditors. J. R. Simmons again will be installed as clerk. Sovereign Coles becomes past consul commander.

NEW FIRM FORMED BY THREE LAWYERS

Announcement was made Tuesday afternoon of the formation of a law partnership by Robert P. Jones, Samuel N. Evans and Jerome Moore, under the firm name of Jones, Evans & Moore. The partnership became operative on January 1.

Formerly Mr. Jones practiced independently, while Mr. Evans and Mr. Moore were partners. All three, however, occupied the same offices in the Atlanta Trust Company building, where the new firm will have its offices. Associated with the firm are Wallace T. Daley and William Sutherland.

GILHAM NOT TO RUN FOR CANDLER'S PLACE

Macon, Ga., January 3.—(Special.) Ben Gilham, traffic manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, today refused to accede to the request of a group of friends to announce his candidacy for the Georgia railroad commission, to succeed Chairman C. Murphy Candler, who announced Sunday that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself at the expiration of his term the latter part of this year.

"I may as well be plain and definitely declare I will not run," he asserted. "I want to stay on the business side of the service as long as I am permitted, because my work has not been completed. The individual aspires to the position vacated by Chairman Candler may as well take stock of himself, for that is an ambitious undertaking."

Three bank officers, representing three banks of Gastonia, identified Krout as the man who had passed the forged checks on them. Krout fought the charge, claiming that he was not the man, and furnishing evidence designed to show that he was in Gadsden, Ala., the day before the checks were passed in Gastonia, N. C.

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER MAKES REPORT FOR 1921

Lieutenant T. E. Lockart, Fulton county health officer, in his report filed with the state board of health Tuesday shows 708 births reported outside of the city of Atlanta for 1921 and 375 deaths reported. There are, however, a number of births and deaths in Fulton county, every year, which are not included in the report of this department, Lieutenant Lockart explained.

The report also contained the following statistics: Calls answered, 945; nuisances abated, 325; dead animals buried, or carried to disinfecting plant, 540; stagnant ponds drained, 4; lakes oiled, 5; cases of diphtheria reported, 64; typhoid fever, 21; scarlet fever, 43; small pox, 121; measles, 240; chicken pox, 49; tuberculosis, 10; whooping cough, 40; meningitis, 1; pellagra, 2; vaccinated for small pox, 700; houses fumigated after infection, 165; surface closets cleaned, 2,300; arrests for failure to comply with health laws, 1; sewer connections made, 42; septic tanks installed in homes and schools, 47; backyards inspected each week, 200.

Lieutenant Lockart reports that the county jail and convict camps are in excellent condition.

TRUE BILLS RETURNED IN PROH HEARINGS

Seven true bills and seven no-bills were returned Tuesday by the federal grand jury, which convened for its January session Tuesday morning. Every case considered Tuesday involved a violation of the prohibition act.

Wednesday morning the body will resume its deliberations. In addition to more liquor cases, a large number of alleged narcotic violations will be investigated. Evidence is being presented by D. J. Meyerhardt, assistant district attorney.

AMERICUS MAN INJURED BY AUTO

Americus, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—C. E. Niblack, manager of the United Grocery company, is confined to his home, on Hill street, with injuries received in an automobile accident here today. He was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Celeste Howard, and dragged 30 feet.

Clinging desperately to the car headlight and radiator, Niblack succeeded in avoiding the machine's wheels, though his hands were badly torn and lacerated. He suffered numerous body bruises as well, but sustained no broken bones.

Henry Dan Stevens, an employee of a local garage, was injured seriously yesterday afternoon, when struck by a flying missile. The missile struck near his eye, the sight of which was lost entirely. Stevens is just recovering from a recent accident in which a car he was driving near Plains overturned, wrenching his back and producing other injuries.

GOVERNOR HONORS PAPERS TO SEND MAN TO GASTONIA

Governor Hardwick Tuesday recognized requisition papers issued by the governor of North Carolina for Walter C. Krout, 64 West Mitchell street, who is charged with passing forged checks in North Carolina, and involving more than $1,000. J. E. Orr, chief of police of Gastonia, N. C., came to Atlanta to serve the requisition papers, and a hearing of the case was held Tuesday in the office of the governor.

Three bank officers, representing three banks of Gastonia, identified Krout as the man who had passed the forged checks on them. Krout fought the charge, claiming that he was not the man, and furnishing evidence designed to show that he was in Gadsden, Ala., the day before the checks were passed in Gastonia, N. C.

Interest to savings depositors of the Central Bank and Trust corporation for the last half year at 4 per cent amounted to $65,517.91, according to Fonville McWhorter, assistant cashier.

Two semi-annual dividends of 4 per cent each during 1921 were paid to the stockholders, amounting to $80,000.

LARGE SUMS PAID BY LOCAL BANKS ON YEAR'S DEPOSITS

Dividends amounting to $120,000 have been declared by the Lowry National bank for 1921, according to a statement made Tuesday by L. Warner Martin, president. This dividend, which amounts to 12 per cent on the capital stock, is paid quarterly.

The savings department of the bank, said Mr. Martin, has paid the regular 8 1-2 per cent interest on deposits, and this totals $80,000 for the year.

Interest to savings depositors of the Central Bank and Trust corporation for the last half year at 4 per cent amounted to $65,517.91, according to Fonville McWhorter, assistant cashier.

Two semi-annual dividends of 4 per cent each during 1921 were paid to the stockholders, amounting to $80,000.

In the ledgers of the Darien Scheme, a famous Scotch trading company of 1696, long accounts, like stories in a modern fiction magazine, are continued from page to page throughout the book.

With modern Loose Leaf systems, accounts are never broken up, because new pages may be inserted in the ledger wherever needed.

You insert new pages in National Loose Leaf Ledgers with the greatest ease—one light turn of a key releases the sheets from the grip of the locking device, your new page is slipped in, then the book is as quickly locked again.

National Loose Leaf Books are used by such firms as American Telegraph and Telephone Company, R. H. Macy & Co., Worthington Pump & Machinery Company. Show your customers our Royal Loose Leaf Ledger, Series 8100. Its chassis is the strongest made; its mechanical features include hinge lugs, bridge plates, bronze bearings and the National flat key. Cowhide and corduroy binding, Yorkshire Ledger paper.

Junior League Holds Meeting At Driving Club

The Junior league's first meeting of the new year was held Thursday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving club. Miss Marion Stearns, president, presided.

Miss Elizabeth Hawkins was unanimously elected second vice president, to succeed Mrs. Frank Carter, who tendered her resignation at the December meeting.

Report of Committees.

The meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes by Miss Mai Horne, recording secretary, which was followed by the reports from the various committees.

Mrs. Rogers B. Toy, chairman of the free school library, reported that during the last month no books had been distributed, but that as a new school term will begin this month in the schools many children will be supplied with books for the second term.

In the absence of Mrs. Scott Warren, Jr., chairman of the public health service committee, Mrs. Eugene Harrington read an interesting report of the Christmas entertainment at the public hospital No. 48. The league gave many of the lovely flowers used in decorating the hospital, as well as fruit, cakes, candies and a little gift to each patient. A letter of appreciation from Mrs. Robinson, of the hospital, was read, in which she also urged more members of the league to come out to see the boys.

Miss Henrietta Davis, chairman of the Luckie street school committee, reported that, with the aid of her co-workers, the lunches were still being served at the school, and that at Christmas a little gift was given each of the children, together with bags of candy and cake.

Girl Scout Games.

The girl scouts committee, Mrs. Edwin Peeples, chairman, which was formed at the December meeting of the league, will start the fourth series of lessons in girls' games under the direction of Miss Corinne Chisholm this month. This promises to be a most interesting course, and a number of members volunteered for this work.

Mrs. Charles Pottinger, chairman of the politics committee, reported that the final plans, details and committee chairmen for the 1922 Follies would be announced at the February meeting.

Plans for the entertainment of the Junior league girls who will attend the conference here in April were discussed, but no final program was arranged.

Members Present.

Following the meeting, tea was served. Among those present were Misses Marion Stearns, Henrietta Davis, Mary Nelson, Frances Powell, Louise Campbell, Edgerton Horton, Mary Murphy, Wickliffe Wynn, Horace Whitman, Mrs. George Raine, Mrs. Lawrence Willet, Mrs. Arthur Clarke, Mrs. Reuben Clark, Mrs. W. E. Campbell, Jr., Mrs. Rogers Toy, Mrs. Brookes Mott, Mrs. Boykin Pennington, Mrs. Philip Head, Mrs. Jack Dismore, Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., Mrs. Cator Wooler, Mrs. Charles Freeman, Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. Ralph Ragan, Mrs. Julian Thomas, Mrs. Henry Newman, Mrs. Willis Ragan, Mrs. Lewis Wright, Mrs. E. V. Carter, Jr., and others.

Miss Owens Is Hostess.

Miss Elizabeth Owens entertained at a bridge-ten yesterday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, her guests including the young girls who are spending the holidays in Atlanta, after having attended school at Oakmere on Long Island, in the fall, and who will leave this week to resume their studies.

In the dining room, the table was laid covered and was adorned with a silver basket, holding poinsettias and narcissus. Unshaded red tapers in silver candlesticks encircled the central decorations.

Miss Owens wore a gown of blue Canton crepe embroidered in bead design. She was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Henry Newman, who wore midnight blue Canton crepe, girdled with jade green velvet.

For Miss Albert And Mrs. Haas.

Miss Mildred Albert, of New York, who is the guest of Mrs. Joseph Hirsch, at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, and Mrs. Edgar Haas, of Memphis, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. L. H. Hirsch, will be honor guests at the bridge-luncheon, at which Mrs. Joseph Hirsch will entertain at her home.

Executive Board To Hold Meeting.

The executive board of the Woman's Missionary union, auxiliary to the Atlanta Baptist association, will meet in the Arcade promptly at 1 o'clock Friday, January 6, for luncheon, after which the regular quarterly meeting will be held. Each member is urged to be present on time.

Ayers—Plummer.

Miss Kitty Ayers and Claud Plummer were married Sunday morning at the home of the bride on Estoria street, Rev. Robert H. Lamkin, pastor of the East Side Tabernacle, officiating.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Plummer and his bride left for Charlotte, N. C., where they will make their home.

League Elects Directors And Talks on Good Roads

Nine members of the board of directors, Atlanta League of Women Voters, were elected yesterday.

They are Mrs. Richard Battle, Mrs. Harry Chamberlin, Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, Mrs. Sanford Gay, Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, Mrs. W. W. Lotspeich, Miss Eleanor Raoul, Mrs. E. M. Sisk and Mrs. J. T. Stephenson.

The ballots were cast at league headquarters, the hours from 10 to 4, and nine women were chosen out of nineteen candidates. The new board will elect its own officers.

Good Roads.

The league's weekly luncheon held at the chamber of commerce Tuesday assembled an unusually large representation, this being the final meeting before the state convention in Savannah.

The principal address was made by Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, who spoke in her triple capacity of farmer, voter and advocate of good roads.

She found the theme of her address in The Constitution's editorial of Tuesday morning, which stated the plight of the progressive farmer who has successfully diversified his crop into an economic procedure backed by the most scientific and common sense principle—and finds himself unable to market his products.

The Constitution's editorial called for a solution of the problem, which Mrs. Thornton declared lies in good co-workers, the lunches were still being served at the school, and that at Christmas a little gift was given each of the children, together with bags of candy and cake.

She explained the plan of the Georgia Good Roads association, of which she is president, this body recently organized to meet the federal appropriation for good roads with a state bond issue and she made plain the method the association's advocates by which the issue may be financed and the bonds paid without any increase in taxes.

She asked the co-operation of the Atlanta league and its influence in the state convention in Savannah to support the proposed legislation.

Plans for the entertainment of the Junior league girls who will attend the conference here in April were discussed, but no final program was arranged.

Members Present.

Following the meeting, tea was served. Among those present were Misses Marion Stearns, Henrietta Davis, Mary Nelson, Frances Powell, Louise Campbell, Edgerton Horton, Mary Murphy, Wickliffe Wynn, Horace Whitman, Mrs. George Raine, Mrs. Lawrence Willet, Mrs. Arthur Clarke, Mrs. Reuben Clark, Mrs. W. FANCY DRESS BALL GIVEN AT DRIVING CLUB FEATUR

Many beautiful and elaborate costumes were displayed at the fancy dress ball given by the Nine O'Clocks during the holiday season at the Piedmont Driving club, this particular event taking place Friday night, and trimmed her slippers. On her head was draped a mantilla, held in place by a high tortoise-shell comb. Miss Ruby Walker's representation of Fritz Scheff was expressed in a costume of black and white. Chinese costume richly embroidered in chrysanthemums, and with yellow chrysanthemums on either side of her hair, is standing with Henry Walker Bagley who wore a bell-boy's suit. Mrs. Claiborne Glover was Tunnell as the minister, and Miss Katherine Hand, who represented a "Chorus Girl." Miss Ernestine Campbell, wearing a very handsome black satin costume portrayed "The Bat," is with Forney Wylie, in over velvet hat was trimmed with henna plumes. PEOPLE WHO USE MISLEADING HEADLINES

Not long ago I heard a woman complaining about a certain newspaper (needless to say, not this one) because the desk man put such sensational headlines at the head of their news columns.

"The facts they print are usually true enough," she said, "but they give a wholly false emphasis and twist to them by the way they take out some unimportant detail and blazon it forth in the headlines. I don't think I shall take that paper any more."

She Minded the Individual Instance.

She was very indignant at that moment because some affair in which friends of hers were involved had been made ridiculous by that method. I don't really think she minded the method so much when it was used to others the bazar would probably have been a failure.

How is that for headline writing? What kind of a twist did it give to the interview?

Here is another kind of sensational headline writing that people sometimes do. They take one fact and headline it in their minds. For instance, the jealous woman will take one thing which her husband has said about some woman he has met, and putting aside all the other things he has also said, will headline this one remark in her mind in a way that gives it an importance it never had. The Super-sensitive Person.

Or the super-sensitive person will take some fancied slight on the part of a friend, and forgetting all the kindnesses and evidences of preference on the part of the same friend, will headline that one slight in a way that makes it the keynote of their relationship.

And so it goes.

Headlines have their place in newspapers—just try to fancy one without them—but in life I think they are a cause of much misunderstanding and unhappiness.

DRESS BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

It May Be That the Struggle of Skirts Will Be Transferred to Blouses for the Shape Worn Over the Skirt Is Continuing Its Fight to Oust the One Worn Under the Skirt.

THE increasing argument on blouses for the suits that are to be featured in early spring might be called France versus America. One can ask at many shops for the simple overblouse that can be worn for sports or under a coat suit on the street, but one gets slight satisfaction. The blouse that goes under the skirt is offered, or the so-called costume blouse which is knee length, has beaded ornamentation, an ornate girdle and is frankly intended to patch up a costume when the coat is removed. The tailored woman wants neither. She wants a jumper blouse made of heavy machine-knitted silk or heavy crepe de chine, and she does not object to faille or silk-wadded poplin. She finds the utmost difficulty in getting it and usually ends by going to a dressmaker to have it made.

All Europe is attired in the jumper blouse instead of the shirtwaist. There it is the exception to have a tuck-in blouse offered; women are supposed to prefer the kind that does not need careful adjustment beneath a skirt with a belt at the waistline. One cannot get the long waistline with such a shirtwaist, say those who sell blouses in France and England.

Over here, those who sell blouses say that women get the long waistline by a belt on a sweater and contend that American women prefer the two garments—the sweater and shirtwaist—rather than the overblouse which carries its own blight. Here the overblouse for simple wear is much exploited and seldom found. It is exceedingly difficult to get one in the small towns. The shops ask astounding prices for such a shape as if it were a new discovery. In France the garment is called a jumper when it is intended for suits and sports and by that name it secures fascinating pieces of apparel that look as well without a coat as with one. They are as plain as pipe stems, not an inch of trimming showing on their surfaces, and the fabrics of which they are fashioned are limited. Beige, ivory and gray are the chosen colors. There is no attempt to match the color of the suit or the skirt.

The trade people assure us that the demand in America is growing sufficiently strong to induce them to order a few of these jumpers, but the strange thing is that nearly every woman who has been abroad has inquired for these garments ever since her return and cannot get what she wants. In choosing them in instead of a blouse and sweater, the French prove their reputation for economy. The proposition of dressing for active duties or pleasures is thus simplified. But we seem to be sweater mad, so just there must be the reason for the divergence of fashion between France and America.

The waistcoat idea has taken hold of both countries and there will be a stronger expression of this fashion when the southern season is at its height. The waistcoat blouse is not looked upon with enthusiasm here, but there is much generosity shown to the deep overblouse, which carries ornamentation in the form of a vest. Thin blouses carry a stole of figured brocade or foulard which makes a brave showing at the opening of the jacket, and as none of the new coats make a pretense of fastening, it is well to have some kind of under garment that fills the hiatus.

The woman who strives to limit her wardrobe in order that she will not be constantly pressed and harassed

THE COLORED LINEN HANDKERCHIEF

WORD comes from Paris that the colored linen handkerchief as a decorative part of the tailored suit is in vogue. And this fashion will be emphasized in the spring, when American women are prone to take to the tailored suit consisting of jacket and skirt. We may wear one-piece frocks and enveloping capes throughout the winter quite willingly, but most of us crave at least one tailored suit when spring comes. There is a freshness, perhaps, about the constantly changing blouse that we like. Anyway, we sponsor and advocate the tailored suit, especially when spring comes.

So, to get back to the linen handkerchief of color, have you mastered the art of making it?

It is an easy matter, and one quite worth while. For you can make a lovely little handkerchief of materials costing a quarter, and for the same handkerchief made you would pay from a dollar and a quarter to two and a half dollars. Your time and handwork, of course, are what make the difference.

Here's how to do it: Draw a thread straight across one side of a handkerchief size square of colored linen. This may be any place from half to two inches from the edge. Skip one thread and draw two more. Then pull the middle thread out half an inch at one end. This is around a loop in a long double piece of thin colored embroidered cotton. Now carefully, by means of the other end of the middle thread, pull the colored thread into place. You can make any sort of designs you wish to, once you have mastered the art of pulling these threads. The edge of the handkerchief may be whipped with colored thread or hemmed or hemstitched. Some shops sell the squares of linen. Others sell it by the yard. A third of a yard cuts nicely into three.

In the Realm of Music BY LOUISE DOOLY

Atlanta faces for January very happy musical prospects in the coming of concert artists of international distinction, and the presentation of study club events also of value in the cultural life.

Sergei Rachmaninoff, whose recital will be an event of the 11th, needs no exploitation. His fame is drawing card enough. While not a sensational pianist in the usual acceptance of the term, yet such is the force of his personality, combined with an art that places him in the front rank of contemporary concert celebrities, that his appearance invariably approaches the sensational in interest. His Atlanta audience of two years ago will be the best advertisement for his forthcoming appearance here.

Nelson Hingworth, who comes on the 14th, needs a bit more of explanation. His looks would hardly suggest the artist. He bears a striking likeness to Abraham Lincoln in his youth, not a very prepossessing likeness for a singer. And yet it is as an interpreter that Hingworth has made his fame.

The long, lank singer is an Australian. Arriving last winter in New York in the middle of the season, he was soon the sensation of the musical life of the large cities.

Action, as much of it as the taste of the concert stage will permit, is part of his interpretive medium, and so graphic is this feature of his effectiveness that the newspapers are printing "serial pictures" of him: a succession of photographs that portray varying phases of his facial expression of emotion.

This Hingworth does in no clasp-trap style, however, but it is the inevitable visible sign of the emotion, his art, his feeling, put into his voice.

He is being presented by the Music Club in its "series in times," a fortunate thing, since the size of Eggleston hall will permit very much more successfully than would a larger hall the full carrying home of his most intimate interpretive shades and effects.

Then on the 21st, another Saturday afternoon affair, will be presented the Kouns sisters, "mirror-voiced singers," whose story reads like a romance. These two beautiful women, who have become noted artists in spite of the handicap of wealth, will also surprise a Music club audience.

A special concert will be put on by the Music club on January 7, when the works of Susan Dyer will form the program.

Miss Dyer is the daughter of the late Admiral Dyer, of the United States navy. Her mother was prominently identified with the General Federation of Women's Clubs of Florida. Miss Dyer is the state president of the Florida Federation of Music Clubs, a part of the South Atlantic district of federated music clubs, of which Miss Nan B. Stephens, of Atlanta, is president.

Her mother's work for voice and instruments has been said by the foremost critics of the country. She has won the Yale prize for orchestral composition and her work for voice and instruments are well known, having had hearings in all parts of the country.

Then there will take place today, January 4 a lecture recital on "Modern Music" by Dean H. H. Bell, of Chicago, college, an acknowledged connoisseur on modern music, and Miss Purcell, of the same college, a pianist of unusual talent for modern works, who will be presented at the morning meeting of the music club.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills Are Informal Hosts.

A beautiful affair of Monday afternoon was the informal open house party at which Mr. and Mrs. William Haines Mills entertained their friends at their home, Kildare cottage, in North Boulevard park.

Southern smilax, palms, cut flowers and holiday fancies were used in the decorations of the house. An open fire added a cheerful note, and unshaded tapers burning in antique girandoles afforded a soft light. Small silver bells were suspended from the chandelier in the living room, and an artistic arrangement of red tulle and fern, which led to silver candlesticks on the table, held held red tapers. The centerpiece on the table was a Christmas plant with bright red berries, and the collections served carried out the color scheme of red and green. Delicious punch and coffee were served by Miss Pearl Ellis.

Miss Ruby Walker, Mrs. Reese MacDuffie and Miss Glen-ock. Little Miss Verdery Rosenbach delighted the guests with two lovely dances in costume, and Miss Bettie Taylor assisted at the piano.

Mrs. Mills was strikingly gowned in tulle and red georgette, embroidered in silver, with a corsage of silver grapes. Mrs. Charles S. Robinson and Miss Osselin Eisenhardt assisted Mrs. Mills in receiving her guests. Mrs. Robinson wore a lovely gown of tulle and blue and gray ducryn, made on straight lines.

More than 100 guests called during the afternoon.

Surprise Party For Miss Smith

Miss Louise Smith was delightfully entertained at her home in Inman Park at a surprise birthday party, New Year's Eve, given by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Smith. Miss Smith was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mr. I. A. Smith, and Miss Jessie Kinard.

The house was decorated throughout with ferns and suggestive holiday touches. During the party, games were enjoyed and at 11 o'clock supper was served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hollingsworth, Misses Louise Smith, Josephine Crafts, Sarah Luckey, Elizabeth Smith, and Miss Kinard; Messrs. Stevenson, J. M. Wigginton, H. G. Crafts and H. B. Baker.

Dancing Party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bracewell entertained at a dance last Tuesday evening at their home on Moreland avenue.

Those present were Mrs. Roy Cooper, Mrs. Dan Hood, Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Bracwell; Misses Rose L. Boatwright, Helen Thompson, William Summersgill, Marie Lucy McAdams, Inez Sargent, Marion Cook, Margaret Gray and Mae Everett; Leake Stubbs, Whitfield Marbut, Charlie Stubbs, A. D. Barber, J. E. Bracewell and others.

Community Chorus Will Meet Tonight.

The first meeting of the community chorus will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the assembly room Atlanta Chamber of Commerce building. Sig. E. Volpi, conductor, requests all members to bring score of "Traviata" for rehearsal.

All members of Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., students of colleges and high schools, as well as members of different church choirs and musical associations who desire special training in chorus work without expense are cordially invited to join the chorus.

Have You Enough of This Wonder Working Substance in Your Blood which science says you must have to enable you to transform the food you eat from lifeless matter into living cells which produce firm flesh (not fat), strong nerves, energy and endurance. Examinations made by doctors show why thousands of people are always weak, nervous and run-down in spite of everything they do.

FREE

The most remarkable miracle of life is the power of your body to transform ordinary food into living cells that build flesh, bone, muscle and tissue. Every minute and every second this miracle change takes place within you. No matter what you eat or how much you eat, if one thing is lacking in your blood it is absolutely impossible for your body to change food into living cells and tissue. Therefore, this wonderful, precious substance might well be called the connecting link between lifeless, inert food matter and life itself. This marvelous wonder working substance is a strange unusual kind of iron which science has named Organic Iron. This is found in minute quantities in spinach, lentils and apples. It is an entirely different thing from metallic iron which is used in manufacturing and which is the kind of iron people usually take. Science has shown that without organic iron, your blood cannot take up oxygen from your lungs and carry it to your digestive organs.

The food you eat contains carbon. As your digested food is absorbed into the blood, the carbon in your food comes in contact with the oxygen carried by the organic iron in your blood. The carbon and oxygen unite and by so doing they give off tremendous energy thereby giving you great force, strength and endurance, and also resulting in the production of material which becomes active living cells and tissue. Without organic iron, your blood carries no oxygen and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food, so what you eat does you no good. It is like putting coal into a stove without fire. You cannot get any heat out of it unless the coal unites with the fire. Therefore, if you want plenty of good firm flesh (not fat) and energy, if you want strong nerves that radiate magnetic force and power, if you want a keen brain that thinks the thoughts that win, you must be able to utilize and get strength and nourishment out of your food.

If you were to see an actual blood test made on all people who are ill, weak, thin, nervous and generally run-down you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and whose troubles are due solely to this lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from a momentary supply of a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear.

BEAUTY CHATS

BRUSH THE HAIR GLOSSY

Glossy hair is so desirable that many women obtain an artificial gloss by using various brillianines or every beauty parlor sells. There is nothing like this, but as a matter of fact, these things are to be used most carefully. They clog the pores of the hair and they coat the scalp and make a normal healthy skin more difficult. But there is some occasion when the hair must look well immediately, and without life or lustre, then is no harm in using an artificial gloss.

Healthy hair, however, is always glossy. If yours is so oily that it is sticky or so dry that it is dull or if you must begin and treat the hair until you have restored it to a healthy condition. Then it will have a natural lustre.

One way of doing this is to brush the hair thoroughly every day, particularly if your hair is long and thick. The oil of the scalp stimulates the hair so that it is forced down the hair and it is the oil in the hair that gives it polish and lustre. Stimulating a thorough wash is also cleansing for it takes the hair a great deal of the dirt that is blown into it every day.

After you have finished brushing, a big puff of absorbent cotton or the bristles of the brush and go to the hair with this. It is cleansing the hair and gives it a glossiness that is the most thorough brushing with the bristles of the hair-brush will not suffice.

Thick hair needs thorough brushing. The hair must be turned under with a hot iron. If you suffered for an entire winter with a continual cold in the head and if this condition is starting up again, you should certainly see your physician and find out the cause of this trouble. You may be physically run down or your winter climate may not agree with you. Tomorrow—Foot Exercises.

The Mortgaged Wife

By Mildred Barbour

Who's Who in the Story.

Jeanne Dare, known in the little town where she came as plain Jane Dare, has set herself up in New York as a wealthy woman in the hope of snaring a rich husband. In this effort she is making use of Richard Canby, well-known man about town. Canby invites Jeanne to a dinner together with Mrs. Adele Parkinson, a widow and former flame of his. At dinner she meets Vic Barstow, heir to the reputed millions, who shows signs of infatuation with her. Signor Bonnetti, a famous violinist, asks only to serve Jeanne, and she uses him as a drawing card to her tea party. Adele foils Victor Barstow's attempt to linger for a tete-a-tete with Jeanne. As Jeanne is starting for a dinner engagement, Henry Harrison telephones. He informs Jeanne that he can borrow nothing on her worthless land. Selby North, gossiping, elderly bachelor, tells Jeanne of Barstow's fine flirtations. Harrison comes to breakfast to arrange for the transfer of property, and meets Adele Parkinson, to whom Jeanne presents him as a business acquaintance. Canby offers a "market tip" as a means for Jeanne to make some money, and Jeanne, troubled by creditors, is tempted to invest, and finally buys some stock, assured by Canby that he himself will assume the financial risk.

FORTUNE SMILES.

It was a rather distant Jeanne who betook herself to her dinner party that evening. Perfectly gowned, as always, smilingly gracious but grave-eyed, as always, her mind was distinctly troubled by the memory of that unexpected encounter with Victor Barstow in the Baltimore lobby. She believed she had been successful in concealing her annoyance from Canby. But she had confessed to him with apparent light amusement that she had told young Barstow she was teasing with him; and that Barstow would probably be rather offended at her obvious falsehood. Canby had laughed indulgently. The story flattered his amour propre. To know that Jeanne had deliberately declined to tea with one of the handsomest and most eligible young men in town, and then accepted his own invitation, was gratifying. Canby had reached the age when, despite the attention his wealth and social position brought him, he liked the assurance that he was interesting to a pretty girl.

Noted French Lecturer to Speak.

Arnold van Gennep, official lecturer of the Alliance Francaise, will lecture Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Recital hall of Phillips & Greer. "The Popular Songs of the French Republic" is the subject chosen by the members of the organization. Mr. Van Gennep is a scholar of note, and has made a special study of the ethnography and folklore of various countries. He is the author of many articles published in the leading papers and scientific magazines, such as The Mercure de France. He has lectured all over Europe.

By a happy combination of lecture and songs, Mr. van Gennep brings a new element which will certainly be appreciated by his audience. All lovers of French and of music are cordially invited to attend. A small admission fee of 50 cents will be charged to non-members. Members are requested to bring their cards.

and constantly, without a glance about them.

It Adele thought she was showing him the sights of Manhattan, she was going about it in a queer way, thought Jeanne humorously. The only sight Henry was seeing was the charming widow herself. Richard Canby, for the first time taking note of Adele's appearance, was amazed to discover a difference. Perhaps the change accounted for the fact that no other members of the party had recognized Mrs. Parkinson and hailed her over to their table.

Adele had discarded her Oriental effect in evening attire. Gone were the earrings, the enveloping chains, the bizarre rings, the darkened eyelids and too-rimmed mouth. The clinging gown of abbreviated bodice and elongated train was not being worn tonight.

The young widow was clad in a girlishly simple gown with a modest décolletage. Her hair was simply dressed, and finished with a comb arranged in neither side nor design. She wore a single necklace of pearls.

Jeanne felt a warm wave of appreciation for Mrs. Parkinson's tact. How few women would have been thoughtful enough not to try to dazzle the westerner with a great show of fashion and opulence. Most of them would have considered that the occasion warranted showing him the most bizarre and extravagant costume which they could devise.

Neither Adele or Harrison saw Jeanne. She contrived that they shouldn't be pleading a headache and leaving early, assiduously accompanied by Selby North, who tried to kiss her in the gloom of the bar as he bore them to her hotel.

She put aside his clinging hands, passing the sentimental moment off with a light laugh. In fact, she did not so well that North was not only not offended, but firmly convinced that her rejection of his advances was due rather to circumstances and environment than to lack of favor. He earnestly believed that, given a moon and a romantic setting, he would be treated with more kindness.

Jeanne awoke next morning, weary after the tiresome previous day. She had breakfasted in bed, and passed the morning reading the papers and catching up on a popular novel that was arousing excited discussion. The Forbes' guests would be sure to talk about it. Jeanne wanted to be posted with some individual opinion beside the regular critics.

There was a brief note in the mail from Harrison written just before his departure for the west. He had stayed over until the 2 o'clock train. He thanked her for a "bully evening." Mrs. Parkinson was "a peach." She had promised to write to him and to send him some of the new books. He enclosed a ten-dollar bill. Would Jeanne be good enough to send her some flowers—he believed she had mentioned Jeanne's narcissus? He had to trouble Jeanne with the errand, knowing how busy she was; but he was an awful duffer about such things. He was "Xours as always, Henry."

Jeanne laughed aloud. "You're coming on, Henry!" she picked up the ten-dollar bill. This would fill her apartment with narcissus.

But she dutifully picked up the telephone and directed the hotel florist to send the required blossoms up to Mrs. Parkinson.

Around mid-afternoon she arose, bathed, and made a careful toilet. She felt fresh and radiant again. The kind came and she heard her hair packed the gowns Jeanne laid out. She hooked Jeanne into a smart afternoon frock, and adjusted a veil smoothly over a jaunty little hat.

It was 5 o'clock Jeanne was ready to start to the Forbes' week-end party. She had dallied purposely until she knew Adele Parkinson. She didn't want to run the risk of meeting them in the lobby and being forced to accompany them. Arriving in Canby's car might prove the last touch to the impression Victor Barstow was already forming about her and Canby after that unfortunate encounter the previous afternoon.

She crossed the avenue to purchase a new book to take down in the car, and was just reaching the farther curb when she heard her name called.

A long, low, blue car drew up beside her, and Victor Barstow's laughing eyes and broad shoulders were above the steering wheel.

"Just saw Canby starting down to the Forbes' with Mrs. Parkinson. He told me he'd asked you to join them, but that you had engagements and would be along later. . . I say." His boyish smile deepened the cleft in his chin, "if you haven't a previous arrangement, won't you let me play chauffeur for you?"

Jeanne was exultant, but she hid it under a doubtful smile while she considered, brows drawn. Barstow waited anxiously. The very card she wanted, but dared not hope for, had been played into her hand.

The Housewife's Idea Box

To Retain Juice in a Fruit Pie. How it does spoil an otherwise delicious fruit or berry pie to have the juice run out, or, as often happens, to have a soggy undercrust! This will not occur if, the next time you bake one, you first make a small funnel of stiff paper. Then insert it into one of the vents in the upper crust. This always keeps the juice where it belongs—in the pie.

ONE REEL YARNS THE FIDDLER.

It was a dark winter night. A knee-deep snow covered the ground. "The gang" was out in full, packing hard snowballs, "peppering" neighborhood windows, then ducking into the shadows to watch the angry folk peer on from behind the shades to see who was "hammering on the pane." It was great sport.

The fellows had just finished giving a dose of snowballs to the side window of the old Morton place, which was inhabited by a "funny old guy who played the fiddle all the time." All the boys had slipped quickly into the shadows to watch the white-haired old man come to the window. All of them, that is, except Randy McCune. He stood perfectly still under the window.

The faint strains of the old man's "fiddle" came through the closed window. The bunch, hidden behind trees, whispered hoarsely to Randy to "duck before he got caught," but Randy, still listening to the violin, remained. The gang knew Randy was interested in music, and violin music especially. But there was no reason why he should risk getting caught.

Suddenly the music stopped. The drawn shade at the window went up. The figure of the old man appeared. He saw Randy standing below the window. But Randy, much to the astonishment of the gang, did not move. The old man raised the window.

"What do you want, boy?" "Nothing," replied Randy. "I was just listening to your music."

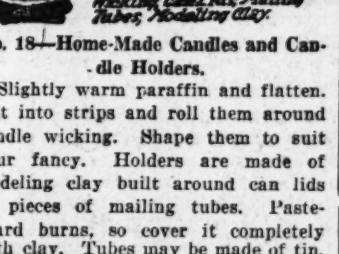

"Well, don't stand out there in the snow. Come on in. Come around to the front door."

And Randy, without turning to his hidden companions, walked around to the front of the house, and entered. Some days later, Snooks Gorman hailed the other members of the gang. Randy had not been with his fellows for some time. "Say, guys," said Snooks, "you know that old guy with the fiddle? Well, I just met Randy and he says the old fellow is a famous composer, an' he's come here to rest up in quiet after a nervous breakdown or somethin', and—listen to this, guys—Randy's taking fiddle lessons from him. Pretty rich, eh?"

The Value of Good Fixtures

"I always put good fixtures in all my houses," said a successful builder to us, "because attractive fixtures are the greatest aid in effecting a quick sale." And the fact that he has placed in his houses some of our best fixtures convinces us of the truth of his argument.

There is no doubt about it, good fixtures increase the value of your property much more than the amount of their cost, and if you are building a home or a house to sell, you make no mistake if you select that kind.

CHAPTER X.

The Battle for a Soul.

The real "hop-ye" got its grips on Dopy Dan the morning of the following day. A night of insomnia, troubled by growing hallucinations and gradually superinducing an intolerable desire for morphine, brought the wreck, before daybreak, to a truly pitiable condition of weakness, anguish and despair. Though the more acute stages of drug-deprivation had hardly as yet commenced, already Dan's condition had grown so serious that Bradford no longer dared leave him for a moment.

At breakfast time Bradford had food brought, and ate a little while Dan, shuddering with disgust, turned his face to the wall and moaned. Bradford forced him to drink plenty of water, and even a little spirit; but nothing availed to quiet the patient's suffering. From now on he grew ever more and more restless. Sweating set in, with severe cramps and a dragging pain in the thighs and legs which made him writhe, howling, on the bed. At 7:30 Dan suddenly arose and ran to the window. Bradford caught him just in time to keep him from throwing himself into the alley, with shrieks that he was being done to death.

After Bradford had dragged him back to the bed the fiend grew more quiet, though he still kept up a more or less continual whining and crying. Toward 8 o'clock he seemed absorbed in some kind of apologetic thought. All at once he sat up in bed, turned his clay-colored face toward Bradford, and, in a hoarse voice, exclaimed: "Look-a here, mister! I'm hep to somethin' you'd give the world to be wise to. Gimme just an eight-grain tablet, an' I'll spill the info."

"Nothing doing," answered Bradford firmly. "If you offered me a gold mine, I wouldn't give you enough dope to dust a fly's eye with."

"Yeh, but this ain't a gold mine I'm talkin' about. I'm wise to all that about your moli—that Sylvia dame, you know—"

"What?"

Bradford shot the word at him with explosive force, and seized him by the bony shoulder.

"She's your moli, ain't she? Sylvia Alden?"

"You know about that?"

"Sure I do!" And Dan grinned unashamedly, while his skinny fingers drummed a nervous tattoo on the bedding. "Legs my shoulder; you're pinchin' me!"

"What do you know?" demanded Bradford, shaking him.

"A lot. It was all a frame, anyhow. Your old man come across wit' a couple o' thousand to get it from Stagg."

Bradford's grip on the emaciated shoulder tightened till Dan's face contracted with pain.

"A frame? Two thousand?" cried Bradford, in a voice that stifled any opposition.

"Fact. Two was what he kicked in wit'. The old dame that pumped the organ at Boggs Court—Mrs. Wesson, you know—she helped put it across. Her an' her daughter, Lalla Graun, my skirt. Meiny helped, too. All of 'em, old Stagg, was in on it. Nothin' to it but a frame, mister. From kick-off to goal. Quit pinchin', I tell you!"

"Go on!" growled Bradford in his throat. "What next?"

"Oh, nothin'. That's all. Only, your old gent put it up to her to quit, an' she did. She wouldn't fight it; wouldn't come back at him. Thought it would queer you, anyhow, no matter if it was all a phony. So she ducked."

He groveled horribly in the twisted bedclothes like a madman, in mingled exultation and importunity.

"Gimme it, now," he shouted. "Come across, come across, or you'll be a squaler, yourself—a rat!"

"You damned skunk!" Bradford flung at him, recoiling from the awful spectacle of the man's contorted face. "Not a grain—not a taste of it! Not an eighth-grain—not a millionth of a grain! Never!"

"Rat!" howled Dan, in frenzy. "Rat—rat—rat!"

A heavy-lidded bang came at the door turned Bradford from the bed.

"Hello! Who's there?" he shouted in a shaking voice.

"Me!" boomed one hoarse word from the hallway.

"Who's me?"

"Mugs Rafferty! Yuh told me to blow back here in the mornin'! Well, I'm here. On de job, dat's all, see!"

"God, Mugs, but I'm glad to see you!" exclaimed Bradford, flinging open the door.

"Come in! I need you now, if I ever needed anybody in this world!"

"What's de kick-up?" demanded Mugs, astonished, as he stared in at the sick-room and observed the tumbled bed with the writing figure in it.

"What's de kick-up, anyhow?"

"Lots! Come in here, and I'll tell you." Bradford closed the door again, behind the wondering Rafferty. "I've got a patient that's gone pipes, for a shot of dope. You've got to help me with him."

"Dan? Is it Dan?"

"Yes. You know all about the case. That's what you came in for, last night—to wallop me for throwing Meiny out on his head and keeping Dan for treatment. Things are in a devil of a fix. He's been off the hop, now, for twelve or fifteen hours, and he's getting violent."

Bradford advanced to the side of the tumbled bed. Dan now lay there, apparently unconscious, with his legs drawn up and with his hands locked tightly over his stomach as if to ease some frightful, devouring pain. His livid skin showed a death-like hue. Almost no pulse beat in his emaciated wrist. Bradford shook him by the arm, but got no answer.

"He's in the morphine-collapse, due to sudden withdrawal," said Bradford. "This is serious, Mugs. I hadn't an idea in the world he was taking enough hop to bring this on, when I cut him off. We've got to have a doctor here, right off the bat."

"Why don't you telephone for one?"

"There's a pay station at de drug store on de corner o' Prince."

"I can't leave Dan, now. Beat it, Mugs! The drug store for yours. Tell 'em to get the nearest doc, in a hurry. All the docs I know are up in the Back Bay—no chance to get one of them in time. We've got to chance it with a North Ender. Go on, now, needed no further command. Mugs needed no further command. Already he was at the door.

CHAPTER XI.

Revelations.

Grave spectated Dr. Tressor, just entering his runabout at the corner of Prince street, observed a bull-necked fellow in a green and purple sweater hastily crossing Hanover to ward him.

"Hey, doc!" this fellow signaled. "Hold on, dere—wait a minute!"

"What's wanted?" asked the doctor, surprised.

"I'm lookin' for a crocus, see?"

"What's that?"

"A crocus, see?"

"What's that?"

"A crocus, see?"

"What's that?"

"A crocus, see?"

"What's that?"

Macon Is Expecting Record Crowd When Tech Plays Mercer Saturday

Invasion of Baptists Was Very Successful, Figures Prove—Cody Well Pleased.

BY C. E. BAKER.

Macon, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—With a record of five victories out of six games played, four of these being gained the past week through a road trip into south Georgia and Florida, the Mercer university basketball team Tuesday afternoon resumed practice in the new city auditorium by way of preparation for the game here Saturday night with Georgia Tech, the first intercollegiate basketball encounter of the season in Macon and also the initial college battle for the Baptist quarter.

Returning to the city Sunday afternoon a little the worse for wear and tear that is received as a result of playing four games on successive nights against teams of unknown ability and with the tireless traveling incurred the players and Coach Cody the recipients of many warm congratulations from Macon fans and Mercer supporters Sunday night and all of yesterday. Coach Cody is wearing an especially broad smile over the outcome of the trip and the development gained by his athletes.

The former Vanderbilt star found out many things about his men on the trip that he never could have learned in days and days of practice. He was warm in his praise of every member of the team. In McWilliams, a substitute guard who took Captain "Snooky" Harper's place in one or two battles, he feels that he has a star of the first magnitude. Speculation rife over the coming indoor affair Saturday with the Tech Yellow Jackets.

Locals Look Good.

The Atlantans, according to best reports, have one of the most formidable fires in the south this season and a victory for Mercer will be quite a feather in the local college's cap. The indoor "Golden Torpedo," let by Head Coach W. A. Alexander, is coming to Macon with a desire for revenge, as the Mercorians trimmed the Jackets in both games last season in Atlanta, 20 to 10, and in Macon, 41 to 18. The visitors have practically the same team as last year and with the one year's experience should prove a formidable opponent for any crew. It will be remembered that the Jackets played in the semi-finals of the S. I. A. A. tournament in Atlanta last March and that they made one of the best impressions of all the teams entered for one hour.

Macon fans are already beginning to expect much of the Cody machine for the campaign and a record crowd is confidently expected Tuesday night. Macon has a reputation of being one of the best cities in the south for patronizing basketball encounters and the game with Tech has already generated unusual enthusiasm, so much that reserved seats requests are beginning to pour in to the Mercer management. Mercer made an impression everywhere they played the past week, and hundreds of fans are expected to make the trip to the heart of Georgia for the battle with Tech.

Here's Some Dope.

A recapitulation of the trip just ended shows many interesting facts. First, Mercer defeated Albany 30 to 18, Jacksonville 53 to 27, Waycross All-Stars 38 to 17 and Savannah 56 to 28. A total of 173 points were scored by the Macon collegians against 84 by their opponents. In the six games this year played the locals have tallied 262 points against 134, or nearly an average of 40 points per game. Only one man was banished from a game on account of personal fouls, while a total of 38 fouls were assessed. Opposing teams committed 46 fouls and Harmon Pope, the foul shooter for Mercer, made 33 of these count for points.

THOMAS GOLF PLAYERS WIN

Thomasville, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—The score of 21 for Thomasville and 8 for the composite team in the grand golf match played on the links at Tallahassee yesterday makes Thomasville again the victor over the composite team, consisting of the two best players from each of the five teams in the Georgia-Florida league, and gives Thomasville the golf championship of south Georgia.

The total of the points made in the game yesterday were: Beverly, 2; Thomasville, 3; against J. Oliver, Van Brunt, Tallahassee, 1; Brown Cooper, Thomasville, 1; Goss, Albany, 2; Wimberly, Thomasville, 3; M. Oliver, Valdosta, 0; Mayes, Thomasville, 2; Brewer, Tallahassee, 1; Hayes, Thomasville, 2; Baldwin, Albany, 1; Trice, Thomasville, 3; Smith, Albany, 0; Thomasville, 1; Thomasville, 0; Dickerson, Moultrie, 3; Davidson, Thomasville, 3; Hubert, Quitman, 0; Mason, Thomasville, 2; Powell, Quitman, 1.

In the game with the composite team last summer Thomasville won by a score of 19 to 9, but not being satisfied with the result, they challenged the victors to play another game with an even worse defeat for them. Following the game at Tallahassee Judge Matthews, of the Florida supreme court, made a formal presentation to the Thomasville team of the silver cup won for not losing a single game in the Georgia-Florida league, and also of the William's trophy, which was won from Moultrie last year. The cups were received by W. L. MacIntyre, in behalf of Thomasville. The golfers and visitors were splendidly entertained by the Tallahassee team.

J.P.C. GAMES INTERESTING

The first round in the American and National leagues of the Jewish Progressive club was played last night.

In the American league, the Senators defeated the Tigers by the score of 38 to 21. In the National league, the Senators defeated the Pirates by the score of 21 to 16.

The games were both very interesting, but were devoid of any special features, except the ability of Finkelstein, of the Senators, to shoot baskets. In the National league, Jake Barkin, of the Pirates, who was heralded as a star, was completely smothered under the attack of the Giants and didn't shoot a goal.

The line-up:

TIGERS. Pos. SENATORS. Goss, 1st base, Finkelstein (28) Borkitz, 2nd base, L. F. Rosenberg (4) Bergman (7) c. c. Gordon (6) Zimmerman (9) g. c. Friedman, B. Silver (8) g. c. Goldstein. Substitutions: Senators, Eckersall for Friedman. Referee: Herten (N. Y. U.).

PIRATES. Pos. GIANTS. Barkin, 1st base, F. L. Roth (4) Vander, 2nd base, L. Wilensky (8) Sigel (9) c. c. H. C. Roth (1) Heman, 3rd base, E. C. Roth (1) Balser (11) g. c. Markales (2) Substitutions: Pirates, Rich for Heman. Referee: Herten (N. Y. U.).

W. & J. AND CALIFORNIA ARE DISAPPOINTED

Pasadena, Cal., January 3.—Both still undefeated, the football teams of Washington and Jefferson and the University of California, which battled here yesterday to a scoreless tie, today were recuperating from the annual east vs. west clash.

The W. & J. warriors prepared for sight-seeing with relaxation from training. Their plans called for starting back to Washington, Pa., Thursday.

"I am entirely satisfied with the showing my men made," said Neale, if they had had a few more breaks they would have won. Washington and Jefferson team outplayed California throughout and needed only a little luck to prove it in the Washington game. The slippery condition of the playing field was quite a handicap to my team. The work of some of the officials was far from satisfactory to me.

"My men put everything they had into the game," said Smith, "but could not penetrate the easterners' strong defense on the muddy field. I am sorry the conditions prevented California from using its usual spectacular play and am convinced that if the game had been played on a dry field, California would have won. I have nothing but praise for the Washington and Jefferson squad. It is a real team and gave us a real battle."

FIGHTING IN HAVANA HAS BEEN PROHIBITED

Havana, January 3.—Prize fighting in Havana is prohibited under a decree by Mayor de Villegas. The decree characterizes prize fighting as brutal and dangerous and points out that the law forbids the use of force and imprisonment for those exchanging fistfights on the street cannot sanction such proceedings, even when the participants are isolated in a roped enclosure and under slight restrictions for the amusement of a crowd.

BARNES AND JOCK BEAT SMITH AND WHITING

San Francisco, January 3.—Jack Hutchinson and Jim Barnes turned the tables on MacDonal Smith and Sam Whiting, San Francisco golfers, defeating them one up in a 36-hole best ball foursome. The score was the same as that by which the local man defeated the champions last week.

TECH PREPS FOR BATTLE

BY JOHN STATION.

The opening of the basketball season is getting dangerously close for some of us. A great many fans go into winter quarters as soon as the football season is over and stay there until the next season rolls around. It is best not to hibernate this season, for from all indications the basketball season at Tech will be every bit as successful as the football. It has taken Tech a couple of years to get her bearings in the court world, but this year we all hope to show a real spirit. We've got the best material to work with that we've ever had. We have two of the best coaches anywhere. So why not?

Our season opens Saturday with Mercer in Macon. And don't think that Mercer hasn't a real basketball team. They had a strong team last year, but that doesn't begin to tell the story as to what they have this season. If we might be allowed to quote Oscar Davis, an eminent sports authority, we would say that Mercer has a perfectly lovely team this season. Charley Morgan, who has been playing loop-the-loop all his life in the guiding hand of the Baptists. He knows basketball from the ground up, and should make a wonderful coach. The scrap down there last year was something else. It started off to be a rather even free-for-all, but when things warmed up good, Mercer wasn't in it.

Wrecking Crew.

Al Station and Bill Fincher were the official wrecking crew. They started off playing guard, but were playing it whole floor before the game was over. In all Mercer used thirty-three men, about thirty of which retired gracefully from the scene after collisions with my old protector, Bill Fincher. The team seems to be getting into pretty good shape. The positions seem to be pretty well settled, and the team work is certainly improving. Our last season was a little disappointing, but the fellows to get together. We had a bunch of good individual players on the team, but that was all. As far as team work was concerned, we didn't have very much; that is, until the tourney, when we did show a little get-together spirit, and finished third in the tourney.

Real Team Work.

This season the individual playing is fading out and in its stead there is a co-ordinated action on the part of the players. That is the kind of stuff that wins games. The team work has been going strong all forward, and will probably start off the fireworks there. Matheson is a mighty good runner for center. He is a real team player. For the last year or so the coaches have been alternating Al Station and Joe Eckford at center. It's a toss-up there and will not be decided until later in the season. Guard Baby Roane, Red Murphy and Al Station have shown the most stuff. Anyway, regardless of who plays and who doesn't, the team is going to be a strong team on the court Saturday night.

P. S.—Several members of the football team making the trip as an added protection.

TATE WILL FIGHT AGAIN

Portland, Ore., January 3.—Harry Willis, the big, heavy, battle-tested fighter, has got to do their stuff all over again and for nothing, the Portland boxing commission decided Tuesday.

They had a fight with a number of fans flat on the lot at the Milwaukee, Ore., arena Monday, when Tate left the ring after being fouled in the first round.

The commission announced their purses would be withheld until they did fight again and set the date for Friday night. At the time Tate was paid to see the Monday fight will receive tickets to the next fight. He said he did not deliberately break in violation of an agreement to break clean. Tate was also snarling under criticism that he deliberately ducked out to escape the Willis' barrage of gloves.

GHOST OF JOYEUSE IS FIELD TRIALS WINNER

Grand Junction, Tenn., January 3.—Ghost of Joyeuse, owned and handled by R. Stinson, of Nashville, Tenn., today won the all-America amateur championship and caused the first surprise of the all-America field trials because of the fact that the runner is inexperienced and almost in the puppy class.

The setter, Martins Mobile, owned by E. A. Richardson, of Nashville, Tenn., and which had a heavy lead for the championship at the end of yesterday's trials, won second place and Cole, Dan Woodson, owner of St. John's, of Ripley, Miss., and handled by Mrs. Webster Price, of Luka, Miss., was third.

Stipulations for the open derby, a professional event, with twenty-one starters, were held late today.

CENTRE FINDS PLACE ON W. & L'S GRID LIST

Lexington, Va., January 3.—University of North Carolina, North Carolina State, V. P. I. West Virginia and Centre college have placed on Washington and Lee's 1922 football schedule. The change means the resumption of football relations between the two institutions after a lapse of fifteen years. The schedule: September 30, Emory and Henry, Lexington; October 7, North Carolina State, Lexington; October 14, Emory and Henry, Lexington; October 21, West Virginia, Lexington; October 28, Lynchburg, Lexington; November 4, Charlottesville, Lexington; November 18, V. P. I. at Lexington; November 30, Johns Hopkins, at Baltimore.

ATHLETICS TO TRAIN AT EAGLE PASS, TEXAS

Eagle Pass, Texas, January 3.—Connie Mack will put his Philadelphia Athletics through spring training here, it is announced after a deal for quarters was closed Tuesday.

WOMAN ARRESTED; WALKS OUT OF JAIL

Arrested on a charge of larceny and placed behind the bars, Mary Whitley, 40-year-old white woman, calmly walked out of the station house Tuesday within ten minutes after being jailed. She was still free last night.

New York and Boston are both licking over the trade by which the Red Sox exchanged Everett Scott and others for Roger Peckinpaugh and some extras. The story is that the Colonels, beside Peck and Quinn and Collins, gave a wad of money. Since the unfortunate break of the Giants in revealing the fact that they paid a huge sum for Heinie Groh the owners are chary of mentioning money, understanding at last that the public is weary of money and wants sport.

The deal has aroused tremendous howling in Boston, but that may be overlooked, since everything Frayser does the signal for a howl. The only trade that would suit the Boston fans and experts would be Frayser for a case of bubonic plague. New York is not at all enthusiastic over losing Peck, one of the greatest shortstops in the world.

In spite of this yelping, the deal, in my estimation, was an excellent one for both clubs, provided the traded players are satisfied. Peck has threatened to quit baseball, and there is a chance he may do so, as he is not dependent upon the sport for a living. Considered from a purely baseball standpoint, if any one got the better of the deal, it was not even. The second angle of the deal, by which Stuff McInnis goes to Cleveland and Boston gets Harris and two others, gives Boston a ball team, with a lot of punch, with speed, and if the pitching staff braces as it may do, it may give Quinn in coaching pitchers, as he probably will, the team becomes dangerous and upsets the American league dope terrifically.

CLUBS LOSING "USELESS" MEN.

The big point of the trade is that all the clubs are losing men who are not and probably would not be satisfied with their old teams, and who may fit better into new surroundings. Scott is one of the games, coldest-blooded, cool-headed ball players in the world, who never makes a game and who always is in condition.

Peck really was through with New York, at least he had either to go or manage the team or get out. With Peck out, it may be possible for Huggins and Barrow to keep Ruth contented and in condition. There is no longer any secret of the fact that two weeks before the world's series there was a crisis in the affairs of the Yankees, with Peck, Ruth and one or two others who were not getting along with the manager, Huggins, who was ill and perhaps not handling the team as well as might have been desired, especially in keeping informed as to the condition of pitchers. Nor is there any denial of the story that Ruth and Peck were given advisory powers to "help" Huggins. In effect, Ruth and Peck were dominating the team, whether officially or not. Such conditions cannot help a ball club.

The effort to get Huggins out had strong backing and lasted from the time of his illness, when Peck took command and started the team on its own, though. For the last year or so the Yankees have been a team of two, with Huggins and Peck. Harris, who replaces McInnis, ought to have been one of the best men in the country. He was injured in the war and was dissatisfied with the treatment or lack of treatment he received from the Cleveland club. He was a good player, but he was not a team player. He was a selfish player. He was a player who was not a team player. He was a player who was not a team player.

THE YANKEES' PLANS.

It is evident that the Yankees plan to use Ruth as first baseman and the biggest sign of promise is the belief that he will play in the winter and his condition will be much better. He is a player who is much better than he was during the world's series, and looks well. The season imposed upon him by Judge Peck, the big, heavy, battle-tested fighter, has got to do their stuff all over again and for nothing, the Portland boxing commission decided Tuesday. They had a fight with a number of fans flat on the lot at the Milwaukee, Ore., arena Monday, when Tate left the ring after being fouled in the first round.

FLA. AND ALA. JOHN WILSON GIVEN OFFER IS SUSPENDED

New York, January 3.—The New York athletic commission, controlling professional boxing, has suspended for an indefinite time Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, and Martin Killean, Wilson's manager, for repudiating a contract to box Harry Greb, the Pittsburgh windmill, in a championship match at the garden this month.

Killean is said to have notified Rickard in writing that Wilson did not intend to fight Greb, and also to have stated that he agreed to the match for the sole purpose of obtaining from Rickard the $35,000 purse held up by the Labor day fiasco between Wilson and Greb. Downey, Rickard, gave Wilson the money when he signed articles to fight Greb.

Andy Chaney, who claims two "newspaper decisions" over Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane, will tackle one of the toughest little men in the ring, the former Babe Horn, a member of California, a member of Jack Kearns' stable, has been chosen to trade mits with Chaney in a fifteen-round decision bout at the Madison Square Garden, New York, where Chaney has been pursuing Kilbane as the head of the pack, and are about the best in the division.

Alumni of Washington and Jefferson university are arranging a great public demonstration in Pittsburgh to be followed by a banquet, in honor of the president's football team on their return of the latter from Pasadena, where they held California to a 0 to 0 tie. Washington and Jefferson men regard the score as a victory for their team, considering the fact that the players had to cross the continent to play.

REAL ESTATE SALES ARE ANNOUNCED

Sale of property at No. 4 Seminole avenue by G. E. Turner and C. D. Moore of E. L. Roberts for $12,000 was disclosed Tuesday in a report of bonds for title compiled from the Fulton county records by the Atlanta Title and Trust company. The property is 47 by 157 feet.

Other bonds for title announced were as follows:

Estate of Mrs. Jane Smith to B. C. Klein, Nos. 62, 63, 64, 72, 76 and 80 McDaniel street, 149 by 274 feet, $14,400.

Mrs. Susie J. Woods to L. W. Waldrip, lot on south side of Wylie street, 80 feet west of Porter, 40 by 115 feet, $2,200.

W. D. Smith to G. F. Bryant, lot on north side of M. F. Bryant, lot on north side of M. F. Bryant, 120 feet east of Simpson, 120 by 140 feet, $1,350. Transferred to Home Trusting.

FLORIDA MEN VERS A TILE

Gainesville, Fla., January 3.—(Special.)—Notre Dame boasts her football stars are better men in other branches of athletics. The Navy advertises that her grid men will give an impetus to other winter sports after the holiday season. Florida's Gator's are not one-sport men either. They make themselves felt in the other branches of major athletics.

Captain Duncan, of Pensacola, for instance, is likely to be a three-letter man. He is expected to make a battle for the center position on the basketball quintet. He is certain to be a likely candidate for Richburg's baseball team, and he is a worthy man in the field events. H. H. Carlton, Wauchula, was the fleet center fielder and clean-up hitter on the 1921 baseball team. He sprints and jumps creditably, making the track team in 1920. Other baseball men on the squad include: R. C. Dickson, R. M. Swanson, L. W. Scott, and A. W. Dutton. None of these men have made their baseball letters, but some of them are almost certain of positions in 1922.

More Candidates.

When Captain "Check" Byrd of Live Oak, calls the first practice after the holidays, he will find a number of football men after positions besides Duncan. E. F. "Shorty" Gunn is a candidate for center. E. D. Newton is expected to make a battle for the right half back position. Henry Perry, of Miami, is going to make a bid for a guard. Wuthrich, Tolbert, George Stanley, and Buck Carlton are candidates for the wrestling team. Stanley and Carlton have been on the team before, and Stanley has been a representative of the university in his class.

Nearly as many football men will be out for track in the spring as for spring football. O'Neal Cox is one of the most dependable Gator cinder shoes. He will find a number of S. U. this year, since he lost out at Seawane last year by a hair. Crom Anderson and Ark Newton are 220-yard and 440-yard men. Newton is also a broad jumper to keep Sollee exerting himself. Hoyt Carlton jumps and sprints. Duncan, Dickson, Perry, and Gunn are weight men. The two former are exceptionally good with the discus and the shot. Daniels, of Chipley, is a possibility for the hurdles, as is Hockins. M. U. Mounts, the red-headed end, is a miler. Jim McMillin, who played his last year, is a mile and a half runner. So in the fall of '22, when Coach Kline and Coach Van Fleet call the roll, they are going to have answer for a number of two-letter men and some three-letter men.

Tex Calls It Off.

Coleman promptly notified Tex Rickard that the fight must not be held, whereupon Rickard cancelled the bout.

CENTRE TEAM LEAVES DALLAS FOR DANVILLE

Dallas, Texas, January 3.—The Centre college football team today was en route back to Danville, Ky., smarting under its only defeat of the season, a 22 to 14 loss yesterday to Texas A. & M. college. The result of the game upset all predictions. The Texas team had swept but one defeat this season, by Louisiana State university, but it was thought Centre would lead by about 20 points.

Charlie Moran, head coach of the Centre team, in a statement made public today, said that "had we been in the same shape as we were for the Harvard game, I am confident we would have won. But A. & M. played a good game. They deserved their victory."

Moran said that his team was not in the best of condition because of climatic changes and long train rides. "Bo" McMillin, hero of the Harvard-Centre game, who played his last game in a Centre uniform yesterday, finished his career as great a sportsman as ever, Moran said.

"McMillin came to me after the game and said: 'I have been given credit for winning many games for Centre. I want to take credit for losing this one. It was all my fault.'"

Moran said that Coach Dana Bible, of the Texas team, attributed all credit for the victory to the fighting spirit of the players. "The men went into the contest with a spirit of self-sacrifice and won," he said. "They played a wonderful game and I am proud of their showing."

McMillin took with him back to Danville his bride, formerly Miss Marie Miers, whom he married in Port Worth yesterday. Next season Moran will be coach at the Centenary College of Shreveport.

JOHN DUNDEE TO MEET BENNY LEONARD, JAN. 12

Milwaukee, Wis., January 3.—Johnny Dundee will meet Benny Leonard, light heavyweight champion, here Jan. 12, following cancellation of the champion's bout with Pinkie Mitchell. Articles for the match were signed following reports that Pinkie Mitchell's lame shoulder will keep him from the ring next Monday when the postponed bout was scheduled.

PREPS' MEET ON TONIGHT

BY ROY E. WHITE.

President L. L. Dool, of the Atlanta Prep league, announces that there will be a meeting of the league directors and representatives tonight at the Boys' High School building, 100 North Peachtree street. The meeting is scheduled to start promptly at 8 o'clock and all representatives are urged to be present.

There was a committee appointed at the last meeting, to determine whether or not the city Auditorium-Armory could be secured for basketball games. This committee is expected to give its report at the meeting tonight. It has been rumored around the prep that this committee will make a favorable report.

If the Auditorium is secured, it has been planned to have two basketball games the same afternoon for the admission price of one. The same officials will probably handle both games. It is also planned to pool all the gate receipts for the season and divide them equally among all the teams. This plan will meet with the approval of practically every league director and will benefit the league.

On Same Basis.

It will put teams on the same financial basis and will add interest to the basketball season. Several of the smaller teams would be forced to discontinue some of the convenience that go along with the basketball season if this plan were not adopted. This act will stamp the city prep league of Atlanta as one of the best prep athletic leagues in the south.

The big advantage in playing both games at the Auditorium is that the spectators can see them for the price of one and also see the smaller "cat" play. In the past all the fans turned out to see the best game, but now they will have a chance of seeing both brands also in the same afternoon.

The composite all-prep football team recently compiled will be voted on and officially adopted. By guard four men will probably be reconsidered and voted on. The other ten positions will not bring any discussion.

Fire Wrecks Town.

Dyersburg, Tenn., January 3.—Fire early this morning almost totally destroyed the business section of Flin, six miles west of here, the burned structures including the hotel, post office, four stores, garage and black smith shop.

Lower Prices Expected For Period in Stocks

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, January 3.—Studebaker made a new high record for the recent upward movement during the early trading today and the Steel shares, under the leadership of Crucible were strong. However, western selling soon started and the market grew weaker than at any time since last August or when the general liquidation movement created by "frozen" loans stopped. Since then the price trend has been upward. Lower prices are expected before the end of the week.

Today's selling in the stock market was connected with the developments in the Chicago banking situation, that is with the taking over of the Fort Dearborn National bank and the Fort Dearborn Trust & Savings bank by George M. Reynolds and his associates in the Continental bank and the Continental & Commercial Trust. Wall street bankers are of the belief that the situation at Chicago is local and has nothing to do with the general banking situation. They believe the situation out there is the same as it was here some months ago when the Mercantile and the same as in Canada some ten days ago when the Bank of Montreal took over the Merchants, thus guaranteeing all deposits.

Another news development of the day that had a bad effect on the stock market was the unexpected passing of the 3 per cent quarterly Kelly-Springfield tire stock dividend. This stock broke over 6 points on the news, 37 1/4. At the same time Studebaker, Asphalt and a number of other stocks in which pools have recently been active, were heavy.

With the exception of sterling the market here for all foreign exchange was weak. In foreign banking quarters the weakness was attributed to year-end adjustments.

American Shipbuilding company announced a plan today for increasing its stock from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. The plan is to sell this new stock at par and retire an equal amount of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock. There never can be any objection raised to taking up cumulative preferred stock by sale of common stock.

Local Rotarians Witness Pruning Of Mock Patient

Another person was cut in two here Tuesday afternoon. The habit of cutting people in two equal parts seems to be the habit of Atlanta of late. At a local theater a woman is cut in two at every performance, but the new addition was a man and a Rotarian. Members of the Rotary club saw the latter operation Tuesday, and instead of being impressed with the seriousness of the situation, they all burst out laughing.

The Tuesday afternoon orgy was staged at the New Year's luncheon of the Atlanta Rotary club in the ball room of the Capital city club. After the committee, composed of Kendall Weigher, Dr. Frank Boland and Dr. Delos Hill, got through cutting the immortal man pieced, the would-be victim did what the woman at Lowe's vaudeville does daily. He got up smiling and walked off in perfect health.

The operation started by the bringing on the ball room floor of full operating room equipment, anaesthetic machines, instrument tables, aseptic basins and instruments, including hammers, saws and chisels. The audience gasped. Then came the committee, accompanied by three best trained nurses from local hospitals.

The first thing removed from the patient was the cigar he was smoking. As the patient lay on the operating table, the doctors announced that the ambulance was waiting downstairs whenever the patient squirmed and gave a snuffed yell, "that he didn't want any operation."

Financial adhesions were first removed; then the fust pocket and the leather lungs—too much gab. It was announced that the patient had been coming late to luncheons, and so the doctors removed the terrapin from the abdominal cavity. It was said that the patient built in places where he wasn't wanted, so the doctors removed the "little billy goat." It was said that he was a chump kicker at the food served at the club's luncheons, so the doctors removed his feet. They X-rayed the patient and because a member accused him of being a typical homebody, the doctors removed the offending bones. They then said he was entirely well and a "simon-pure Rotarian."

At the next meeting of the club, it was announced, there will be an operation in which part of the pep of those who have an abundance of enthusiasm will be grafted into those who show a lack of it.

Tuesday's meeting was addressed on "Boys" by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Georgia Boys' club, who took more interest in boys who will be the future men of the city.

Price cuts of from $90 to $240 on all models are announced for Haynes cars effective at once. Wall street expects more announcements of the same kind this week before the annual automobile shows begin this coming Saturday.

Stock exchange listings for 1922 published today make an interesting showing, the figures in round numbers being $2,179,000,000, against $2,422,000,000 for 1921. $1,350,000,000 for 1919, and $821,000,000 for 1918. Aside from the decrease of $240,000,000, the point of interest is the change in character of securities followed: Last year $1,315,000,000 bonds and $858,000,000 stock; for 1920 bonds were $684,000,000 and stock, because of the high prices, $1,738,000,000.

MACON RAILWAY EMPLOYEES ADOPT FIVE-DAY SCALE

Macon, Ga., January 3.—(Special.) Six hundred shompen employed at the Central of Georgia railroad shops in Macon, today voted to work five days a week during the month of January, rather than have the force reduced by eighty men.

The company, in endeavoring to operate within its income, found it necessary to make a cut in operating expenses for January and cuts were ordered in every department. The employees were given the option of accepting a five-day week or having a number of men thrown out of employment.

Atlanta Theater—All week (matinee Saturday), "The Broadway Whirl."

Lyric Theater (Keith Vaudeville)—See advertising program.

Loew's Grand (Vaudeville and Pictures)—See advertising program.

Howard Theater—All week, Rudolph Valentino in "The Conquering Power," and other screen features.

Keith Vaudeville. (At the Lyric.)

Today will offer the last opportunity for Atlantians to witness the triple headline program offered at Keith's Lyric. May Melville and George Forman are the real "top-mountainers" in their newest laugh extractor, "The League of Servants."

The Tuesday afternoon orgy was staged at the New Year's luncheon of the Atlanta Rotary club in the ball room of the Capital city club. After the committee, composed of Kendall Weigher, Dr. Frank Boland and Dr. Delos Hill, got through cutting the immortal man pieced, the would-be victim did what the woman at Lowe's vaudeville does daily. He got up smiling and walked off in perfect health.

We would like to see each one of our readers personally and explain to them how much fun they can have solving this Picture Puzzle; but of course that is impossible, so we are telling you through the paper, but the best way to convince yourself of the fun is to try it.

Try it. It is easy. Without any trouble whatever, you can readily see such objects as "shovel," "sack," "sign," etc. Can't you? Well, the others are just as easy to see, but the idea is who can find the most. Fifteen big cash prizes will be given for the fifteen best lists of "S-words" submitted in answer to this puzzle. The person sending in the largest and nearest correct list of visible objects shown in the picture, starting with the letter "S," will win first prize, second best, second prize, etc.

—$1,500.00—
OR $1,000.00—15 PRIZES

This campaign is to give our present readers some good lively entertainment, and to acquaint new people with the fine qualities of the "South's Greatest Newspaper." We invite everyone to try, and it costs you nothing to take part.

If your list of "S-words" is awarded FIRST prize by the judges, you will win $50.00, but if you would like to win more than $50.00, we are making the following special offer whereby you can win "BIG CASH PRIZES" by sending in ONE or TWO subscriptions. HERE'S HOW: If your answer to the "S-Word" Picture Puzzle wins FIRST prize, and you have sent in ONE six months' subscription to The Atlanta Constitution, at $5.00, you will receive $500.00 instead of only $50.00; Second prize $350.00; third prize $350.00, etc. (See second column of figures in prize list.)

OR, if your answer wins FIRST Prize and you have sent in TWO six months' subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution at $5.00 each, or ONE yearly subscription to The Constitution at $9.50, you will receive $1,500.00 in place of only $50.00; Second prize $1,000.00; Third prize $1,000, etc. (See third column of figures in prize list.)

It takes but two six-month subscriptions at $5.00 each, or ONE yearly subscription at $9.50 (either new or renewal) to qualify for the big $1,500.00 prize, or the second and third $1,000.00 prizes. Absolutely that is all the subscriptions required. You can do this with very little effort. Your own subscription can count.

We can also take subscriptions to start at any future date. Just mark on your order when you want the paper to start, and we will not commence delivery until you say.

- Any man, woman, girl or boy, who is not an employee of The Atlanta Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.
- All answers must be mailed by January 21, 1922.
- Answers should be written on one side of the paper only, and each word numbered consecutively, 1, 2, 3, etc. Do not put more than one "S-Word" with each number. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right-hand corner. If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.
- Only words found in the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use hyphenated, compound or obsolete words. Use either the singular or plural, but where the plural is used, the singular can not be counted, and vice versa.
- Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects. The same object can be named only once; however, any visible part of the object may also be named.
- The person sending in the largest and nearest correct list of "S-words" will win first prize, etc. Neatness, style and hand-writing have no bearing upon deciding the winners.
- Candidates may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to more than one of any group outside of the family, where two or more have been working together.
- In the event of a tie for any prize offered the full amount of such prize will be paid to each tied participant.
- All answers will receive the same consideration, regardless of whether or not a subscription for The Atlanta Constitution is sent in.
- There will be three independent judges, having no connection with The Constitution, who will judge the answers submitted and award the prizes at the end of the puzzle game, and participants agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
- The judges will meet right after the close, and the announcement of the prize winners and correct list of words will be published in The Constitution just as quickly thereafter as possible.

Observe These Rules

Send in TWO six months' subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution at $5.00 each, or ONE yearly subscription at $9.50, and the puzzle manager will mark your list qualified for the largest prizes, starting with $1,500.00.

ONE six-month subscription, either new or renewal, will qualify your answer for the middle list of prizes, starting with $500.00. Your own subscription will count or it would be an easy matter to secure a subscription or two from your friends or neighbors. Don't let your list remain unqualified a day longer than you can help.

CLUES ARE FOUND IN SEXTON CASE

Macon, Ga., January 3.—(Special.) Investigation of the disappearance of A. B. Sexton, of Royston, whose blood-spotted car was found abandoned near a local bridge, Saturday night, following the receipt of a post card by the police, signed "Chief," stating Sexton had been murdered and his body thrown in the swamps near Macon, took an entirely new turn today when officers claimed to have learned at a local filling station that Sexton's automobile had been seen there last Friday afternoon.

A negro workman at the filling station said to have identified the car as that belonging to Sexton by means of a spare tire that he transferred from another car to the rack in the rear of the Sexton machine. This tire had been replaced on one of the wheels and the old tire placed in the rack.

The other car was driven by two white men. The police are now trying to locate the negro who is said to have driven the Sexton machine, and the two white men in the other automobile. In the meantime, parties are searching the swamps between Macon and Madison for Sexton's body.

Alex Stephens, a negro employee at the street car barns here, told the police today that a drunken white man came to him at the barn about two blocks from the Spring street bridge, where Sexton's automobile was found last Saturday morning, and told him that a man was being murdered on the river bank.

Stephens said he paid no attention to the man. That was about ten o'clock Saturday morning, some hours before the abandoned car was found. Relatives and friends of the missing man arrived in Macon last night after searching the highway from Royston to Macon, left this morning to meet another searching party, which had left Royston.

The two parties will probably meet in Athens and work back over the road again. It is expected that the party that left Monday will return here sometime tomorrow.

Christian Science
Publishing Society
Trustee Is Named

Boston, January 3.—Judge Crosby, of the supreme court, announced today that he would formally appoint Fred M. Lamson, vice president of the Old Colony Trust company, of this city, and a Christian Scientist, as temporary trustee to take charge of the affairs of the Christian Science Publishing society, as soon as certain details as to his duties have been defined. The trustees of the publishing society and the directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, had informed the court that they had agreed upon Mr. Lamson.

Judge Crosby decided that Mr. Lamson should be designated as temporary trustee, rather than temporary receiver, as had been suggested by counsel for the trustees, but that he should be responsible to the court and should not exercise powers given by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy to the trustees under her deed of trust. He will hold his post until the court has determined after further hearings whether the directors acted in good faith in removing Herbert W. Eustace and Paul Harvey as trustees, and has acted on various other matters before the court.

Counsel for John V. Dittmore, who is contesting his removal from the board of directors, also agreed to the appointment of Mr. Lamson.

KLAN CASE IS SET FOR HEARING TODAY

According to the calendar prepared Tuesday by John S. Holiday, deputy clerk of Fulton superior court, a civil suit against the Ku Klux Klan brought by Z. R. Upchurch, is set for hearing before Judge John T. Pendleton Wednesday.

This suit to be heard Wednesday was brought by Z. R. Upchurch against Edward Young Clarke, 1409 N. W. Avenue, and the Atlanta Klan, in which Upchurch is seeking to prevent the transfer of property by Mrs. Tyler to Mrs. Dorris Manning Jett. The suit was filed December 16 and Upchurch alleges Mrs. Tyler has transferred most of her property to Mrs. Jett in order to keep him from recovering on a suit previously brought by him against Mr. Clarke and Mrs. Tyler in which he called for an accounting between the Klan to be set for trial.

This is the first of the suits against the Klan to be set for trial.

TO HOLD SERVICES TODAY FOR PALMER

Funeral services for Clarence B. Palmer, widely known employee of the Kutz millinery establishment, who died Monday, will be held in St. Philip's cathedral at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Bishop H. J. Mikell, bishop of the Atlanta diocese, will officiate. Burial will be made in West View cemetery and funeral arrangements will be in charge of Greenberg and Bond.

TO OPEN BOND WORK BIDS JANUARY 10

Bids for engraving of the bonds of Atlanta for the issue of $8,500,000 will be opened January 10 by the bond commission and awarded recommended. The commission met Tuesday afternoon to consider the bids and before it except sale of the bonds. Members discussed this subject briefly and adjourned.

HOLMES DELIVERS ADDRESS AT CONYERS

Conyers, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—Rev. B. R. Holmes, colored president of the Holmes institute, delivered the emancipation proclamation address in the First A. M. E. church here Monday to a large audience composed of farmers of several counties. Rev. L. A. Stroud, pastor, was master of ceremonies.

Holmes urged the necessity of educating the colored race along all lines which will fit them for the duties of life.

Art Study Class Meets.

The art study class of the Atlanta Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. Marvin Underwood on Tuesday morning. Professor Francis Smith, of Georgia Tech, addressed the class on the subject of "Etching," and demonstrated the process, also giving a review of the lives of great etchers.

Dublin Woman Is Named Judge Of Juvenile Court

Becomes First Woman Jurist in Georgia—Will Assume Office At Once.

Dublin, Ga., January 3.—(Special.) Mrs. O. L. Anderson, prominent Dublin woman and wife of a well-known railroad official, late this afternoon was informed of her appointment as juvenile court judge by Judge J. L. Kent, of the Laurens superior court. The appointment was not an applicant for the place and did not know, until informed that her name was being considered as the first woman judge in Georgia.

This appointment means that Laurens county will have a tribunal for trying cases of minors charged with offenses of the law and who often are thrown into prison, where conditions are not very conducive for good to children in a formative period of life.

The appointment of such an official here is thought to have been the result of agitation and interest of local women in certain cases recently where minor children were jailed on charges of infractions of the law. Only a few weeks ago, a 14-year-old boy was found guilty of murdering his 17-year-old playmate and sentenced to life imprisonment. Mrs. Anderson will assume her new duties immediately.

SANDERS ELECTED CASHIER OF BANK

Decatur, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—C. M. Sanders has been elected cashier of the Decatur Bank and Trust company, succeeding W. C. M. Laine, who retired Saturday to become connected with Jones, Rampeck & Co., Inc. Mr. Laine has purchased an interest in the corporation. Mr. Sanders has been connected with the bank for a number of years.

NEW CONVICT CAMP STARTED BY COUNTY

A new convict camp was established Tuesday with the moving of 40 convicts to a campsite on the Peachtree-Dunwoody road. Four 15-men steel cages will be used for the present. The county has just received these cages, which are equipped in the most modern manner, with electricity, sewerage and heat. From time to time other convicts will be sent there.

PETITION FOR CHARTER.

STATE OF GEORGIA—County of Fulton.
TO THE SUPERIOR COURT OF FULTON COUNTY.

The petition of J. R. SMITH, W. H. BROWN, J. K. RANKIN and J. BROWN, all of said State and County, respectfully shew:

1. That they desire for themselves, their associates and successors to be incorporated and made a body politic under the name and style of SMITH & HIGGINS, INC., for a period of twenty (20) years with the right of renewal at the end of the said term of time.

2. That they desire the office and place of business of said corporation shall be in Atlanta, Ga., Fulton County, but petitioners desire to have the right to establish branch offices in this State and elsewhere, and to do so as the Board of Directors of the corporation may deem best.

3. That the object of said corporation is to engage in and conduct a general mercantile business, to buy and sell dry goods, notions, clothing, shoes, hats, ladies' ready-to-wear garments, furnishings and any and all articles of merchandise at wholesale or retail that the Board of Directors may decide to buy and sell. They also desire the right to lease or otherwise acquire real estate and to lease real estate and improve the same in such manner as the Board of Directors may determine. They also desire the right for said corporation to borrow money and secure the same by mortgage on all or any of the real estate owned by the corporation, and to discount notes, accounts or other evidences of indebtedness, and to make, issue and bequeath, have a common seal, make and alter its by-laws, and to do all such things as may be necessary or proper to carry out the objects of the corporation.

4. That the powers usually accorded to corporations of like character.

5. That the capital of said corporation shall be one hundred thousand ($100,000.00) dollars, with the privilege of increasing the same to the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand ($250,000.00) dollars by a majority vote of the stockholders, said stock to be divided into shares of the value of one hundred ($100.00) dollars each.

6. That the said corporation shall have the right to have the subscriptions to said capital stock paid in money or property to be taken at a fair valuation.

7. That they desire for said corporation the power and authority to apply for and accept amendments to its charter of either form or substance by a vote of the majority of its stock outstanding at the time, and also the right to amend its articles of incorporation and its by-laws at any time, and to do so as the Board of Directors of the corporation may deem best.

Wherefore petitioners pray that an order be granted by the Court incorporating them, their associates, successors and assigns as a corporation, corporate name, powers, privileges and authorities herein enumerated, and such other rights, powers, privileges, etc., usually incident to corporations of like character.

Witness my official signature and the seal of said court, this 13th day of December, 1921.

(Real.) ARNOLD BROYLES,
Clerk Superior Court, Fulton County, Ga.

AGED MAN BEATEN BY NEGRO THUGS

Holdup Men Get Only Fifty Cents After Striking Down J. A. Clarke, 111 Inman Street.

What police describe as one of the boldest robberies ever committed in the city took place about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when two young negroes waylaid an aged victim, J. A. Clarke, of 111 Inman street, at the corner of Greenberry avenue and Matheson place, and after striking him with a rough stone over the head, beat him severely and fled with the contents of his pockets, 50 cents.

Mr. Clarke is 80 years old, a pioneer of this section, and well known in Atlanta and Fulton county. Dazed by the blow to the head, he could not talk coherently to Fulton county policemen and city detectives, who hastened to the scene to search for the thugs.

Taken in an ambulance, which responded from the undertaking establishment of Barclay & Brandon, to Grady hospital, he was given medical treatment and later removed to his home.

Late Tuesday afternoon officers formed a posse, which several indicted neighbors of the victim joined, and started to scour the woods in the vicinity.

Descriptions Lacking.

Relative and friends of the victim told officers all they were able to learn from Mr. Clarke, but accurate information of the robbers could not be furnished. Descriptions of two negroes seen hurrying from the scene of the holdup a few minutes later was given city detectives by several young white boys, who were hunting in the woods bordering Greenberry avenue, and who stated they saw the men, but thought nothing of it at the time.

The police theory is that Mr. Clarke, who left home a few minutes before he was found stunned and bleeding in the road, was confronted by the two negroes and an attempt at robbery staged. It is thought the victim must have resisted, as the thugs, possessing no weapons, picked up a stone and used it as a weapon.

Work at Disadvantage.

Detectives Hornsby and Woodson were assigned to the case and last night began a search in the city for the negroes, but with the meager information in their possession, they were working at a disadvantage.

Physicians at the hospital stated Mr. Clarke sustained a deep gash on the head, which would, had it been a trifling blow, have caused a fracture and probably reached the brain.

The victim was resting easily at his home last night.

AGED WOMAN DIES IN LYERLY

Lyerly, Ga., January 3.—(Special.) Death claimed Lyerly's oldest resident early this morning. Mrs. Amy Dover, aged 90, was passing away at 6 o'clock, following a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Dover was the widow of the late H. S. Dover. Because of the family connection, there has been a number of feature stories concerning her published in the newspapers.

Mrs. Dover has, perhaps, 180 living descendants, including seven children, about 60 grandchildren and 90 great-grandchildren, and a number of great-great-grandchildren.

Before her marriage to Mr. Dover on December 10, 1849, Mrs. Dover was Miss Amy C. Hames. She was born and reared in Murray county.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed today, but will probably be held Wednesday or Thursday from the Lyerly Primitive Baptist church, of which Mrs. Dover was a member. Interment will be in the Lyerly cemetery, beside her husband.

OFFICER WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

Newnan, Ga., January 3.—(Special.)—Deputy Sheriff T. J. Thomas, of Covett county, and John Williams, negro fugitive, were wounded Tuesday night, when the officer and A. P. Matterbee, of an Atlanta detective agency, arrested the two offenders. Brown opened fire, one of the bullets taking effect in Thomas' right shoulder. Matterbee shot the negro three times before he was placed under arrest. Brown is wanted in Alabama on highway robbery charges, and a reward of $700 was outstanding for his arrest.

Officials from Montgomery have arrived to return the negro for trial.

NEWBERRY TO PLEAD FROM SENATE FLOOR

Washington, January 3.—Senator Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, will speak in his own behalf from the floor of the senate when that body decides whether or not he is to retain his seat.

Newberry's election was investigated by a senate committee. It was charged that he spent exorbitant sums. The senate will begin a discussion of the committee's findings the latter part of the week.

Newberry's decision to defend himself, it was understood, was reached after republican leaders had suggested to him it would be advisable if he did this. Heretofore Newberry has refrained from speaking in his own interest. He did not appear before the senate investigating committee, and had not intended to speak from the floor.

His silence aroused the ire of some of his republican colleagues. A group of them declared they would vote to unseat him unless he spoke. The decision in the case promised to be so close that republican leaders decided a defense from Newberry would be necessary.

MERGER OF BANKS ADDS CONFIDENCE TO BANK PATRONS

Chicago, January 3.—The ease with which the affairs of the Fort Dearborn National and Fort Dearborn Trust and Savings banks were handled by financial leaders here Tuesday proved a source of confidence among bank patrons throughout the city.

Any apprehension that may have been felt while financiers were arranging the gigantic $60,000,000 merger with the Continental and Commercial National and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings banks Monday night, gave way to admiration of the speed in which the merger was arranged, and the frictionless way in which it was put through.

When the Fort Dearborn institutions, according to the Clearing House association, were inconvenienced by over-extension of credit, there will be no eventual loss of value for stock after details have been settled.

George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of directors of the Continental and Commercial banks, and even the stockholders will receive value for stock after details have been settled.

AGED WOMAN DIES IN CRASH OF AUTOS

Mrs. Martha Hunter, of Stockbridge, Ga., Succumbs to Fracture of Skull at Hospital.

Mrs. Martha Hunter, 80 years of age, of R. D. 3, Stockbridge, died at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night at Grady hospital from a fracture of the skull, which she received at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when a car driven by her husband, Rev. G. W. Hunter, collided at Fair street and Boulevard with another car driven by Sam, Dick, of 414 Peachtree street.

Mr. Dick was placed under $2,000 bond by the police Tuesday night. When the crash occurred he stopped at once and gave Rev. Hunter a card bearing his name and address. It is stated that neither auto was running rapidly when the collision occurred.

Mrs. Hunter was thrown from the car and struck her head on the pavement. She was taken to Grady hospital for treatment.

The Hunter car was occupied by Rev. Hunter, Mrs. Hunter and their adopted daughter, Ruth Hunter, 12 years of age. Mrs. Hunter was the only person injured.

According to Rev. Hunter, they were on their way to a church service. Mrs. Hunter's brother, at 18 Hull street, Kirkwood, when the crash occurred.

Mrs. Hunter, besides her husband, leaves her brother, John J. Golden; two adopted children, Ruth Hunter and Andrew Hunter, and four nephews: A. J. Golden, T. W. Golden and G. F. Golden, of Egan Park.

Donohoe & Bazemore took charge of the funeral and will make funeral arrangements.

Rev. Hunter, while residing on a farm, is an ordained Baptist mission preacher.
